Women Suffer Consequences In Police Slayings

BY IRIS B. HOLTON

During the last 12 years, 3 Tampa women have been linked to the deaths of six police officers killed in the line of duty. In two of the cases, their male counterparts have ended their own lives, leaving the women to suffer the consequences of their actions. In this third incident, the male suspect is the subject of an intense, nationwide manhunt.

Early Tuesday morning, 22-year-old Cortnee Nicole Brantley became the third woman in this growing trend.

At approximately 2:15 a.m., Tuesday, Officer David Curtis conducted a routine traffic stop on a 1994 red Toyota Camry because the tag was not visible. Ms. Brantley was the driver and Dontae Morris, 24, was the passenger. The car was stopped at the intersection of 50th Street and 23rd Avenue.

Both Ms. Brantley and Morris provided Officer Curtis, 31, with their correct identification. A warrants check revealed that an active warrant for Morris was in the computer. Officer Jeffrey Kocab, 31, was called.

As the officers attempted to arrest Morris on the warrant, he is alleged to have pulled a handgun and fatally shot both officers in the head.

After the shooting, Ms. Brantley drove off. Morris fled on foot, becoming the subject of an intense manhunt nationwide.

Warrants have been issued for Morris for 2 counts of first-degree murder and 1 count of a felo in possession of a firearm.

Ms. Brantley was taken into custody Tuesday afternoon at the Bristol Bay Apartment Complex near N. 50th Street and Palm River Road. The vehicle was also recovered and impounded.

After 7 hours of interrogation, Ms. Brantley was released. However, she can still be charged.

Other Cases

Ms. Bernice Bowen became the first in this trio of women to be arrested in connection with the murders of police officers in Tampa. She was charged with 4 counts of accessory after the fact of first-degree murder, child neglect and child abuse in the death of her son who died at the hands of her boyfriend, Hank Earl Carr. She won't be released from prison until 2016.

Ms. Bowen's son, 4-year-old Joey Bennett, was brought to a Tampa Fire Station on the morning of May 19, 1996. The child had been shot in the head. She told officials this was an accidental shooting involving her boyfriend, Hank Earl Carr.

The child died and Carr fled. He was caught and taken to the police station for questioning. Detectives Ricky Childers and Randy Bell took Carr back to walk through the scene of the shooting.

Carr's hands were cuffed in front as he rode in the back of the unmarked police car. He escaped the handcuffs, grabbed Detective Childers' service revolver and shot him on an exit ramp of the interstate. He also shot Detective Bell, and hijacked a Ford Ranger.

Carr drove north on I-275 into Pasco County, and exited on State Road 54. He saw Florida Highway Patrol Trooper James Crooks on the exit ramp. Carr walked up to Trooper Crooks and shot him as he talked to his supervisor.

Carr drove to Hernando County, where he took the clerk hostage at a gas station. After 4 hours, Carr released the hostage unharmed and committed suicide.

Three years later, on July 6, 2001, Officer Lois Marrero died while chasing two bank robbery suspects into an apartment complex. Officer Marrero, 49, was a 19-year veteran of the Tampa Police Department. The couple, identified as Nester DeJesus and his girlfriend, Paula Guiterrez, ran into the apartment complex where DeJesus shot Officer Marrero, ambush style. He and Guiterrez ran into an apartment and took a hostage. The standoff ended when DeJesus committed suicide.

Ms. Guiterrez, who was 24 at the time, was arrested and charged with first degree murder. She is currently serving a life sentence at Lowell Correctional Institution.

Police Seek Brother Of Murder Suspect

The Tampa Police Department are currently searching for Dwayne Daniel Callaway for questioning. They would like to talk to him about his brother, Dontae Morris.

Morris, 24, is currently the subject of a nationwide manhunt. He is wanted for the murders of Tampa Police Officers David Curtis and Jeffrey Kocab.

Both officers were fatally wounded after a traffic stop where Morris was the passenger. Morris allegedly shot them as they attempted to arrest him on an outstanding warrant for misdemeanor assault.

Callaway, 21, is also wanted for two counts of violation of probation (domestic battery).

Dontae Morris Is Suspect In 3 Other Murders

As law enforcement officials continue to search for suspected double-cop killer, Dontae Morris, Tampa Police Chief Jane Castor announced that Morris is a suspect in another murder.

On the night of May 18th, Derek Anderson, 21, was shot to death in the parking lot of the Kenneth Court Apartments on 43rd Street. Family members said Anderson was returning from visiting a friend when he was shot.

A neighbor tried CPR to revive him but he was pronounced dead when he arrived at the hospital.

Lataisha Williams, Anderson's aunt, said the news of Morris being a suspect in her nephew's killing is nothing new.

"I've heard this for a while. It was brought to our attention right after Derek was killed, and we told the detectives. "I think some of our younger family members may have heard of him, but none of us actually knew him. There were four people we suspected of killing Derek, and Morris was one of them."

Williams said at that time, all Morris was to them was a name.

Rumors also have circulated that Morris was involved in the murder of a fitness trainer, but that has not been confirmed by law enforcement officials.

Daphne Stevens, the sister of another homicide victim, Rodney Jones, said they have not heard anything about Morris being suspected in Jones's death.

"We've never heard of him before, and his name has never been brought up in any conversations we've had with the detectives."

Jones, a fitness trainer, was shot to death May 30, 2010 after leaving the Cotton Club in West Tampa.

Murder Suspect In Jail When Checks Passed

The Duval County State Attorney's Office said someone opened a checking account at a Jacksonville bank in April 2008, using Dontae Morris' name, (with the correct spelling), his correct date of birth, and his correct social security number.

Three checks were passed at 3 Jacksonville Publix Supermarkets on the closed account in April 2008 and a fourth was passed to another merchant in July 2008.

However, records show Morris began serving a 2-year, 3-month prison sentence on March 25, 2008. He was released from prison on April 4, 2010.

Suspect Has Not Contacted Family

A massive manhunt has been underway for Dontae Morris since early Tuesday morning. According to a source, Morris's father died when he was a youngster and he was his father's only child. He is very close to his grandparents, but they have not heard from him.

Police have gone to the homes of immediate family members, friends and acquaintances since the shooting without success.

Morris reportedly dropped his cell phone as he fled the scene and police found it during the investigation.

FATAL ACCIDENT ATTRIBUTED TO DIABETIC EPISODE

Stephon Jones, Ms. Brown's brother, said his sister suffered a diabetic episode while transporting Deasia, and that's what caused the accident.

Tonya Brown, 52, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio. She is a graduate of Withrow High School, and attended Community College of South Nevada and Florida Medical Prep where she completed her training as a Certified Nurse Assistant.

Jones said his sister moved to Tampa to join her daughter, Tsgt. De'Lisa Brown, who had recently returned from a change of duty station from Korea.

"She stepped in to support her granddaughter while De'Lisa served her country. De'Lisa was scheduled to be deployed to Afghanistan on July 6th and was in the process of planning her wedding when the accident occurred."

Ms. Brown volunteered to serve during Hurricane Katrina's relief efforts on the ground in New Orleans. There, she received numerous accommodations from Global Risk Solutions for her efforts that were directly led to expeditious processing of numerous claims of the stricken residents.

She also worked for Bank of West Nevada in Las Vegas, and both the Wackenhut Corporation and the U. S. Postal Service in Cincinnati.

Ms. Brown has two daughters, Carla Renee Brown and De'Lisa, three grandchildren, and three siblings.

A private service will be held in Tampa for Ms. Brown, but the memorial service will be held in Cincinnati as requested by Ms. Brown.

Made In Somewhere Else

For years, I believed that the United States was the biggest, badass, richest, smartest, most creative and most productive nation in the world. This was especially true when it came to productivity. I believed that America produced and manufactured most of whatever this country needed or wanted, except oil.

Today, I now know that this is no longer the truth. America has almost completely gone out of the manufacturing business. So much of what is sold in America today is made in another country. China and Japan lead the way in manufacturing items sold in America.

It is a fact that manufacturing plants were bed rocks for the prosperous American middle class. Millions of men and women made very good livings working in the various manufacturing plants across America. This was especially true in many of our big cities.

Today, our economy and this country is plagued by high unemployment. It is no secret why. So many of these manufacturing plants have closed their doors and gone out of business in America. They have moved abroad and taken their jobs with them.

I ask you America, how can you retain your greatness when you have to depend on other countries?

There is so much talk today about how America needs to reduce its dependency on foreign oil. I agree with that fact 100%. But oil isn’t the only thing we need to stop depending on foreign countries for.

We need to take back our manufacturing. We need to reopen and rebuild manufacturing plants all over America and begin to make and sell American products made in America.

Clothes, shoes, jewelry, cars, building materials, furniture, entertainment equipment and miscellaneous gadgets are among the items being shipped into America by the tons. And by tons, I mean, Americans are buying these products by the tons. I wonder China’s economy surpasses that of the United States.

The American economy will never be the same again until we become a manufacturing nation again.

Not only will Americans go back to work, but they will go back to work at a very livable wage. We ought to be tired of reading made in somewhere on the products we buy here in America.

Veto To Whom For What?

Mary Stiles, who heads a movement to bring a county mayor to Hillsborough County, is angry.

Stiles is angry with the Hillsborough County Charter Review Board. She doesn’t understand why they don’t understand that the public is confused.

Confused about what? That is the question. It turns out, the question is, “Why should Hillsborough County voters care about or vote on veto powers for an elected official who not only has not been elected yet, but does not even exist?”

If you’re lost, we’re referring to the elected official known as County Mayor.

Now, we’re confused. Did Hillsborough County voters not veto the idea of a county mayor during a previous election? If memory serves us correctly, we believe so. Therefore, if Hillsborough County has no county mayor, then what, some body please tell us why a nonentity would need veto power over a county commission that obviously he or she will not get to govern?

The Manliness Of Tears

Like everyone else in America who watched the B.E.T. Awards show Sunday night, I was blown away by Chris Brown's tribute to Michael Jackson. And also like everyone else, I was shocked by what happened next.

When Chris Brown appeared to have an emotional breakdown during his performance of Jackson's song, "Man In the Mirror," I cringed in embarrassment for him. Even as my taste buds were still sizzled by his treatment of Rihanna a year ago, my heart went out to the guy. What I witnessed on that stage was something all too familiar. And as much as I was tempted to join in on the "down Chris Brown" movement that grew during the days that followed, I couldn't bring myself to participate without feeling like some kind of hypocrite.

That is because I've been to the place where Chris Brown went emotionally that night. The only difference is that his feelings were broadcast to the entire world, while I had the comfort of solitude.

For most men, tears like the ones he revealed, are strictly forbidden in public. They are reserved for the privacy of bathrooms, closets and dark dens that also act as designated cry safety zones.

We are raised to, "never let them see us sweat." "Suck it up." And when the going gets unbearably, we're supposed to, "take it like a man." To breakdown in such a demonstrative fashion would be considered a first-degree assault on what we perceive as the essence of our manhood.

Because men, at least in the open, are supposed to be strong as oxen and as hard as granite. But sometimes, under extreme heat and pressure, even the most solid rock begins to crack.

We all have breaking points (some endure more than others). And any man who says he doesn't, lacks the capacity to keep it real with not only himself, but to the people around him as well.

Just as surely as we eat, breath, sleep and die, we experience pain, heartache, loneliness and frustration. And even though we bottle up these emotions, while masking their effects on our psyche, if our pillows could talk they would probably expose us for the water heads we often are.

Many have speculated that Chris Brown's actions were part of an orchestrated attempt to win sympathy votes and to get back in good graces with his estranged fans. But, I strongly disagree.

No man, particularly a Black man, wants to come off as soft or weak under any circumstance. By baring his soul in that venue, Chris Brown made himself vulnerable to that perception in every possible way.

But to me, his decision to let it all hang out with complete disregard for what others may have thought didn't make him any less of a man. If anything, I gained more respect for him because of his ability to be so comfortable in his own skin, that he could expose himself fully without any apologies.

And that's something all individuals who define themselves as "real" men should be willing to do.

Mom Caring For Ailing Daughter Asks For Stolen Car's Return

TOCCARA BRADWELL

On Halloween 2008, Toccara Bradwell was out enjoying herself. Her mother, Gloria Dixon, said Toccara (known by everyone as Nikkii), kept falling down, and she became concerned because her daughter doesn't drink. When she went home, she complained of being dizzy.

"I took her to see a doctor in December 2008, and they found a tumor on her brain stem. Since then, her health has gotten worse, and now she's paralyzed, going blind, and has developed other health problems."

Ms. Dixon said her daughter, now 27, has undergone several procedures, but nothing has helped.

"Making matters worse is the fact she gave birth to her first child, Jasmine, about 5 months before she was diagnosed with the tumor."

Ms. Dixon bought a car and a wheelchair to get her daughter back-and-forth to her visits with the doctor. On occasion, they leave the wheelchair in the car, which is what happened last week. But, Ms. Dixon couldn't have predicted what else would happen.

"Last week, the car was stolen with the wheelchair inside. That left me with no way to get Nikkii to the doctor or pick up her medication."

"I've managed to get another wheelchair on loan, but the car is a real necessity, and I would like to get it back. I want to appeal to whoever took the car to please bring it back."

The car is described as a 1998 grey 4-door Nissan Sentra. The car has a damaged rear bumper on the driver's side and damage to the front grill. Ms. Dixon said she bought the car about 6 weeks before it was stolen.

The tag number is 809318.

U.S. Senate Candidate Appears On Radio Talk Show

Florida's newest and hottest talk show, The Michele B. Patty and King Cobra Morning Show, is attracting a lot of new listeners. Last Saturday, U.S. Congressman, Kendrick Meek was their guest, and what started out as a 15 minute interview, turned into a 45 minute question and answer session. The show is broadcast live on WWBA 820AM, and you can watch the show on 820WWBA.com.

The show's host said they received calls from St. Petersburg, Lakeland, Apollo Beach and other areas from listeners eager to talk to Congressman Meek. "In line with what kind of show we wanted to broadcast, we were more than overjoyed Congressman Meek accepted our invitation," said King Cobra. "We would like local politicians to also take advantage of our forum to answer questions and get to know the public better."

Minister Patty said she wants this show to be the voice of people from all over Florida, not just those living in Hillsborough County. "People have very little support in the political arena these days, and they need to know what's going on, how it will affect them, and what they need to do."

Youth From Local Ministry Get Tour Of Buccaneer Facility

For the second straight year, Tampa Bay Buccaneer wide receiver, Michael Clayton, has been actively involved with Bible Truth Ministries and Project H.O.P.E. This year, along with Tyrone Keys of All Sports Community Services, youth from the ministry and Middleton High School were treated to a tour of the new Buccaneer facility.

Sharla Jenkins, a spokesperson for the ministry, said this was an end-of-the-year surprise for the students. "We had about 14 youth take the tour and they really enjoyed themselves. They got to meet some of the other Bucs, watched their practice sessions, toured the entire complex, and had lunch with some of the players."

Former Mental Health Care Employees Allege Discrimination

BY LEON B. CREWS
Sentinel Staff Writer

Four former Mental Health Care, Incorporated employees, and one employee, have filed action against the agency alleging discrimination and the creation of a hostile work environment.

Tamera Fryer, Charde Barnett, Shamille Black, Ruthie English and Steven Thomas have contacted the Tampa-Hillsborough NAACP, and the Equal Employment Office, alleging they are being discriminated against and their workplace has turned into a hostile work environment.

Fryer, Barnett, English and Thomas all terminate with no cause. Black, still employed with the agency, said she expects to be terminated as well or will resign.

All five people said their complaints surround the actions of one particular supervisor.

"In our opinion, her supervisory practices have been intimidating, unethical, deceptive, unfair, and dishonest. Her decision to fire four African Americans under her supervision have indications of discrimination. She has compromised the decisions of other managerial staff, which has resulted in jeopardizing the treatment of mental health clients." The former employees said there was no investigation prior to their termination.

"I was terminated because I allegedly didn't do what I was told to do. I also inquired about another employee, and that was used as a reason to terminate me."

Barnett, who is pregnant, said she was terminated due to being unprofessional to clients and insubordinate. She said she was also accused of sleeping on duty.

All of the former employees said their complaints are about a white female supervisor who has only been on the job for two months, and immediately came in targeting Black employees.

"She talks to us with no respect, and makes racist statements," said Thomas.

MHC CEO, Julian Rice, said he made inquiries into the complaints made by the former employees, and cannot comment at this time due to the issues being litigated.

The former employees said they have been denied due process, and two were escorted out of the building when they were informed of their terminations.
Rogers Family Reunion This Weekend

ROGERS FAMILY

One of the things civic leader, Hallique Ransom cherished was the gathering of family. The 4th of July weekend, the descendants of Minnie and Garfield DeVoe (G. D.) Rogers, Sr. and his 16 brothers and sisters will be held at the Embassy Suites Hotel, University of South Florida Campus, Tampa. The theme of the reunion is "Bridging Generations."

In the old Central Avenue days when African Americans did not have many options for locations to take their families for fun, G. D. Rogers, Sr. was one of the entrepreneurs to operate the Rogers Pyramid Hotel; donated the land used for Rogers Park; and grew the business of the Central Life Insurance, Company.

Many of his descendants are well known community activists, Seville Brown, James Ransom and Manny O'Bryan.

Activities planned include Friday, barbecue at Ft. DeSoto Beach; Saturday, Seafood Fest Lunch and Saturday, banquet with an island theme. Come and say hello to the many family and friends who will be attending.

How Do You Celebrate Independence Day?

BY LEON B. CREWS
Sentinel Staff Writer

You can always tell when the 4th of July (Independence Day) is getting close, because all of the fireworks booths start appearing out of nowhere. You can also tell by the amount of traffic on the roadways and the battle for grill space at parks all over the area.

This year, Independence Day will be on a Sunday, but for a lot of people, that will not change their traditional plans. A few people were asked how they celebrate the 4th of July. Below are their responses.

State Representative, Betty Reed: “Usually, I’m in a parade somewhere. But if I’m not, I’m with my family. It’s a day we all get together, and we’ll extend it into Monday and keep on going.”

Tampa Housing Authority Media Relations Director, Lillian Stringer: “I always spend that day with family and friends. Usually, we get some fireworks, enjoy good food, and keep in mind the fact that we’re celebrating Independence Day and what that means. It’s a tradition with our family.”

East Tampa Development Manager, Ed Johnson: “I always do it with my family. I’ll head to Miami Beach over the weekend to join my daughters and we’ll have a family reunion. It’s a time of the year we always look forward to.”

Hillsborough School District Assistant Superintendent, Lewis Brinson: “We try to find a place to gather and cook. It’s also the perfect time to sit back and relax and give some thought to the upcoming work week.”

West Tampa CDC Manager, Michael Randolph: “I mostly spend it working on behalf of the community. I know that sounds corny, but that’s what I’ve always done. Everyone else is stuffing their faces, but I use the time to work on various projects. When you’re working for poor people, you get no time off.”

Sickle Cell of Florida Director, Frank Reddick: “I’ll be in Atlanta with my family. My cousin and other family members in Tampa will join me on my road trip. We’ll all pitch in on the cooking, and I’ll be at my cousin’s house having a good time.”

The Patel Conservatory will hold a stand-up comedy workshop by popular comic, Ranney Lawrence, on Mondays, July 12th and 19th, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

The workshop will assist students of various experience levels to develop the path to their own brainstorming, writing, and developing process, empowering them to make the best use of their time away from their microphones.

Lawrence, a native of Winter Haven, Florida, has been teaching the classes since 2004, but took a break in 2008.

"Now, I'm ready to go. I try to give the students in the workshop insight into the should and should not. Even more important, I ask them what they do for the rest of the week after they perform. I want to know how much time they spend creating and reading."

Lawrence said there are so many different aspects of comedy, and how you work on your craft away from the microphone is very important.

"A comedian doesn't just walk out there and do comedy. There's a lot of work behind it."

"I'm happy more African Americans are getting into comedy. A lot of young students don't really know about some of the new comedians. Some didn't know Eddie Murphy started out as a stand-up comedian."

Lawrence said he gives the students constructive criticism, and hopes they are strong enough to accept it.

"I want them to leave with no misconceptions about being a comedian and what it takes. I'd rather have them hate me now, than discover later what I was telling them was true."

Competition To Award Scholarships
Tampa Bay residents are invited to compete for scholarships at the Patel Conservatory at the David A. Straz, Jr. Center for the Performing Arts in the "Tampa's Got Talent" competition on Sunday, July 18th.

Those interested in competing should call (813) 222-6453 to register or obtain more information.

Where Will LeBron Play?

The biggest question in sports today is, will LeBron James play? The answer to the question will come soon. The free agency period has started and just about every NBA team has an eye on James. It appears that LeBron's old team, the Cleveland Cavaliers, the Chicago Bulls, the New York Knicks, the Dallas Mavericks and the Miami Heat are the top contenders for landing LeBron. The Heat, who may lose guard Dwyane Wade, appears to be out.

Cleveland, down the road from LeBron's hometown, seems to have the edge. Cleveland is like home, it is where LeBron has played, they have the money and they are closer to a championship than any of the other teams. Rumors have it that James is leaning towards Chicago because the team is young and very talented. James would provide the leadership, experience and super talent they need to win the championship.

Dallas has a chance because of owner Mark Cuban's desire to win and the fact that he wants James. The Mavs also have Jason Kidd, LeBron's friend. Where will LeBron play? I say Cleveland or Chicago. Soon, we will know.

Tiger And The AT&T Tournament

The AT&T Golf Tournament was called the AT&T Golf Tournament hosted by Tiger Woods. It was played at Congressional Golf Course in Washington, DC. This year the "hosted by Tiger Woods" has been dropped from the name and the tournament has been moved to Philadelphia. Don't read too much into these changes. Woods is still associated with the tournament, most of the proceeds still go to the Tiger Woods Foundation and Woods' name is expected to be restored next year.

The reason the tournament was moved from Congressional is because the U.S. Open will be held there next year and the course is already being turned into a U.S. Open Golf Course. Woods is in the field this year and the tournament will return to Congressional in 2012.

Ex-NFL Quarterback's Son Drowns In Hot Tub

Former NFL star Randall Cunningham's 7-year-old son was found dead after apparently drowning in a backyard hot tub at his Las Vegas home, authorities said.

The child was discovered at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday by a woman and several children at Cunningham's house. Las Vegas police Officer Marcus Martin, a department spokesman, said the death appeared to have been an accidental drowning, but authorities were still investigating.

Cunningham, 47, is an ordained minister and pastor of a church six blocks off Las Vegas Boulevard that he runs with his wife, Felicity. He was out of town when Christian Cunningham, the youngest of four children, was found.

The woman removed the boy from the water and attempted to perform CPR, Las Vegas police Lt. Dennis Flynn said.

The child was pronounced dead less than an hour later at St. Rose Dominican Hospital Siena campus in nearby Henderson, Nev.

Cunningham, a fleet-footed quarterback, played for 16 years in the NFL for the Philadelphia Eagles, Minnesota Vikings, Dallas Cowboys and Baltimore Ravens. He retired in 2002 as the career leader in rushing yards among NFL quarterbacks with 4,926. The Eagles last year added him to the team's honor roll.
Rivers To Return As Celtics Coach

Celtics coach Doc Rivers has decided to stay with the team for the 2010-11 season, a league source confirmed.

The news was first reported by The Boston Herald. Rivers, who coached the Magic for four full seasons before coming to the Celtics in 2004, was considering taking a leave from coaching to spend time with his family.

The Celtics lost to the Lakers after seven games in the 2010 Finals, two years after Boston defeated L.A. for Rivers’ first NBA championship as a coach. He has a 280-212 record over six seasons with the Celtics.

Stoudemire Opted Out Of Phoenix Suns Contract

PHOENIX - Amar'e Stoudemire has opted out of the final year of his contract with the Phoenix Suns to become part of an illustrious list of free agents this season.

Agent Happy Walters said the five-time All-Star made the move Wednesday after talks with Suns owner Robert Sarver failed to result in an agreement on a contract extension. The last year of Stoudemire’s contract was worth about $17.7 million.

“I opted out of my contract with PHX,” Stoudemire said on his Twitter account. “Can’t wait to see what lies ahead. I want to play.”

Walters said the Suns remain in the picture but the 6-foo-10, 249-pound power forward wants to see what develops on the free agent market. Stoudemire has been with the Suns since he was drafted out of high school, as the ninth pick overall, in 2002.

Walters said he and Stoudemire met three times in the last season to discuss contract extension terms. The last year of Stoudemire’s contract was worth about $17.7 million.

Chris Henry Had Chronic Brain Injury

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — Cincinnati Bengals receiver Chris Henry suffered from a chronic brain injury that may have influenced his mental state and behavior before he died last winter, West Virginia University researchers said Monday.

The doctors had done a microscopic tissue analysis of Henry’s brain that showed he suffered from chronic traumatic encephalopathy.

Neurosurgeon Julian Bailes and California medical examiner Bennett Omalu, co-directors of the Brain Injury Research Institute at WVU, announced their findings alongside Henry’s mother, Carolyn Henry Glasspy, who called it a “big shock” because she knew nothing about her 26-year-old son’s underlying condition or the disease.

Jackson Sells 35 Million Albums Since Death

LOS ANGELES - Michael Jackson has sold an estimated 35 million albums worldwide since his death, according to Billboard - an unprecedented response to a musician's passing. While a shocking number of beloved musicians have suffered untimely deaths over the last two decades - Nirvana's Kurt Cobain, Jeff Buckley, Notorious B.I.G., Tupac Shakur, Aaliyah, TLC's Lisa "Left Eye" Lopes and Elliott Smith, to name a few - none have resonated with audiences quite like the King of Pop's.

The music sales are only part of a worldwide Jackson phenomenon that has included ringtunes, ticket and home video sales for the Sony Pictures concert film "This Is It," publishing revenue and more, generating a reported billion dollars in overall grosses since the singer's death. Jackson's label, Sony Music, is counting on it - per Michael Jackson

Billboard, the company has promised the Jackson estate $200 to $250 million in a multi-year deal that will include the release of 10 albums, counting last year's "This Is It" soundtrack and including an upcoming November disc of unreleased material and a release in 2011 of 1979's classic "Off The Wall."

What Jackson had in the vaults, and what form the future releases will take, remains mysterious.

Joe Jackson Withdraws Bid For Estate Stipend

LOS ANGELES, Calif. - Michael Jackson's father is withdrawing his request to receive more than $15,000 a month from his late son's estate.

A court filing says Joe Jackson is dropping his bid to receive a monthly allowance in favor of pursuing a wrongful death lawsuit over his son's death.

Joe Jackson filed a lawsuit in federal court on Friday against Dr. Conrad Murray, who has been charged with involuntary manslaughter in the singer's death.

The Jackson family patriarch was omitted from his son's will, but in November sought a stipend to pay his monthly expenses.

Joe Jackson's filing indicates he may renew his request for a stipend later if necessary.

Method Man Pleads Guilty To Tax-Evasion Charge

NEW YORK - Hip-hop star Method Man pleaded guilty to a tax-evasion charge Monday, writing a check on the spot for the final $40,000 restitution payment after owing about $106,000.

The former Wu-Tang Clan member was arrested Oct. 9 on charges he failed to pay state and personal income taxes. He pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted failure to pay tax.

He was sentenced to a conditional discharge, which means the arrest will be purged from his record if he stays out of trouble.

"When he found out about the tax issue he hired someone and immediately corrected it," defense attorney Peter Frankel said. "He took care of it quickly like the good member of our community he is."

The musician, actor and artist, whose real name is Clifford Smith, failed to file tax returns for 2004 through 2007, prosecutors said. The most he owed for one year was $32,799.

Nas Behind On Mortgage Payments For Kelis

Although they've been legally divorced since May, the court proceedings between Nas and Kelis are still ongoing.

The couple's marriage was terminated May 25th and Nas was ordered to pay his estranged wife nearly $300,000 in spousal support.

Now however Nas is not only behind on those payments, but is also behind on the singer's mortgage totaling $52,989.22 in back payment for the estate.

Nas is aware of being late on the six-figure support payments and is on a payment plan to catch up.

Kelis' lawyer Laura Wasser believes the rapper makes $244,826 a month.

Oprah Regains Her Crown On Celebrity 100 List

LOS ANGELES - Pants-less pop stars, late-night warriors and sexy vampires spiced up the fame game last year, with Lady Gaga, Conan O’Brien and “Twilight” superstars Kristen Stewart and Robert Pattinson joining the Forbes Celebrity 100 list for the first time.

But despite their impressive debuts (Gaga hit the list in fourth place), Oprah Winfrey is the year’s big winner. After being ousted by Angelina Jolie on last year’s list (Jolie dropped to No. 18 this year), the Queen of All Media takes back her crown on Forbes’ annual ranking of the world’s ultra-famous. Winfrey earned $315 million over the past 12 months.

The talk-show host chowed up when announcing that this coming season of her flagship chat fest would be her last. The news helped the self-made billionaire garner more press mentions than any other member of the Celebrity 100.

The Rest Of The Best

Bayonce Knowles climbs two spots to No. 2 on this year’s list, raking in $87 million over the course of the year. Her 90-plus date global tour grossed more than $85 million, bolstering a portfolio that includes album sales, her House of Dereon fashion line and a slew of endorsement deals, ranging from Nintendo to L’Oreal.

In at No. 3: director James Cameron. Thanks to the box office success of “Avatar,” the man who once declared himself “the King of the World” pulled down a hefty $210 million over the last year.

Rounding out the list’s top five: golfer Tiger Woods. Despite personal and professional setbacks this year he still managed to earn $105 million between June 2009 and June 2010.

Khia Gives Explicit Relationship Advice: ‘Plain Sex Is So Boring’

Tampa native Khia is back in headlines for her off-color remarks. This time the Florida rapper is contributing to VIBE for a sex column.

“The My Neck, My Back” connoisseur previously gave explicit details on her sex life.

Now she’s back with her second set of tips and dishing out advice on how to deal with a man that lacks “control” in the bedroom. According to Khia a man should have enough “discipline” to control himself when he’s with his partner. The femcee also tells VIBE that communication is key.

Fat Joe Cleared

Fat Joe and his entourage have been cleared of all charges after a 33-year-old woman in Wisconsin claimed she “found herself” inside a limousine with Joe on Sunday after a performance and was “inappropriately touched” by him and members of his staff.

Joe had denied the charges from the jump as Hip-Hop Wired previously reported. A statement released by his attorney Dawn Florio read:

Joseph Cartagena, known as Fat Joe, and others have been officially cleared by the Madison Wisconsin Police Department of any wrongdoing.

Fat Joe had no contact with, and never spoke to his accuser. He was questioned for a few minutes at his hotel room and was never detained by the police.

Russell Simmons Wins Battle Against Cap On Debit Card Fees

Russell Simmons won a battle on Capital Hill after the Hip-Hop impresario took on supporters of the financial reform bill’s regulation of debit card fees.

The mogul who owns UniRush, the distributor of his “Rush Card” debit cards, appeared in D.C. earlier this month to lobby for “interchange fees”, fees that he believes if taken away will hurt low-income people who are often purchasers of his Rush Card.

According to Simmons the cut on interchange fees would force him to charge his customers more and ultimately profit big name companies like WalMart and Best Buy.

Interchange fees which occur between banks and retailers have long been thought to be more beneficial to retailers than to big banks.

Grands and great grand­children getting into every­thing you make and they scatter, and you run and find them, I laugh, because you never hit them.

Manhunt Underway For Suspect In Double Police Slaying

BY IRIS B. HOLTON
Sentinel City Editor

For more than 48 hours, a 24-year-old man who is the subject of an intense, nationwide manhunt has eluded police. He is wanted in connection with the deaths of two Tampa Police officers who were shot during a routine traffic stop that turned deadly early Tuesday morning.

According to police, at approximately 2:15 a.m. Tuesday, Tampa Police officer David Curtis, 31, observed that the license plate on a 1994 Toyota Camry was not visible. He got behind the vehicle at N. 50th Street and E. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Blvd. Officer Jeffrey Kocab, also 31, was his backup unit.

The vehicle stopped at the intersection of N. 50th Street and 23rd Avenue. Ms. Cortnee Brantley, 22, was reportedly driving the vehicle and Dontae Morris, 24, was the passenger, police said.

After the officers learned that an active warrant existed for Morris, they attempted to make an arrest. Morris is alleged to have pulled an unknown caliber handgun as the officers attempted to arrest him. Morris allegedly shot both officers at close range.

Cortnee Brantley, who was driving the vehicle, fled in the vehicle, police said.

The vehicle topped at the intersection of N. 50th Street and E. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Blvd. He got behind the vehicle at approximately 3:00 a.m. Tuesday. Police launched a massive manhunt throughout the state. They have also obtained warrants for Morris for two counts of first degree murder and one count of a felony in possession of a firearm.

Counts of the whereabouts of the two suspects began pouring in and one tip led police to the Bristol Bay Apartments complex Tuesday morning. Ms. Brantley, who was reportedly inside of an apartment at the complex, was taken into custody without incident and the vehicle was recovered. She was released after 7 hours of questioning without any charges being filed.

Family Issues Plea

On Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Willie Dixon contacted the Sentinel on behalf of Donte Morris' family who wanted to speak with Chief Castor. Rev. Dixon said the family had not heard from Morris, but wanted the assurance that he would be allowed to surrender safely.

Later that evening, Rev. John Anderson, Jr., Pastor of New Testament Missionary Baptist Church of Thonotosassa, appeared on a local television station and read a statement from the family.

In the statement, they expressed their condolences to the families of the slain officers and appealed to Morris to surrender.

Police launch massive manhunt for suspect in double shooting of two Tampa police officers.

Looking For Oil
Crews are cleaning Gulf Coast beaches 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. When oil is spotted, the Response Command Center is notified, a Shore Cleanup Assessment Team (SCAT) is mobilized and cleanup begins immediately. Cleanup efforts are being coordinated from 17 staging areas in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida. Over 33,000 people are involved in the cleanup operation.

If you see oil on the beach, please call 1-866-448-5816 and we'll send a team to clean it up.

Cleaning Up the Beaches
The number of people mobilized to clean up the beaches depends on the size of the affected area. Individual teams can number in the hundreds, and thousands of additional workers remain on call. Working with the Coast Guard, our teams continue cleaning up until the last bit of oil has been removed. As a result, in most cases when oil reaches a beach, it is even possible to keep it open.

Our Responsibility
Our beach cleanup operations will continue until the last of the oil has been skimmed from the sea, the beaches and estuaries have been cleaned up, and the region has been pronounced oil-free. And none of the costs of our efforts will be paid by taxpayers.

Our commitment is that we'll be here for as long as it takes. We may not always be perfect, but we will make this right.

Although it has been six months since a devastating earthquake struck the country of Haiti, on the island of Hispaniola. However, prior to the end of school, a group of elementary students, teachers, and administrators collected items for a Haiti Relief effort.

Dr. Kahillah Mack, School Psychologist at Belle Witter Elementary School, said the students welcomed State Representative Darryl Rouson and Dr. Frederic Guerrier to their campus for the event. Mrs. Susan Persbacker is the Principal, and the Assistant Principal, Ms. Maryam Muhammad.

The donations were presented to Dr. Guerrier as he prepares for his next trip to Haiti. He is a physician and of Haitian descent, who frequently visits Haiti providing free medical services to children and families in need.

After the earthquakes, teachers, students, and parents began asking what they could do to help. Seeing the need to coordinate this undertaking, Ms. Marlene Givens, a 4th grade teacher and school psychologist Dr. Mack took charge of the project. Over the next several months, students, teachers, and parents promptly brought in finances for medical supplies, non-perishable goods, and clothes. Each day since the start of this fundraiser, numerous bags of clothes, canned goods, boxed goods, and bottled water were stored in several locations throughout the school.

"Dr. Guerrier and State Representative Rouson were greeted by cheering parents, teachers, staff, and students holding banners. The school’s drum line and step team also performed. "Dr. Guerrier and State Rep. Rouson were given Certificates of Appreciation for their outstanding service to Haiti," Dr. Mack said.

As the two visitors toured the school campus, students stood outside their classrooms and sang "We Are The World."

VERSION 573

Jesus Is Love! Jesus Is Liberty!
Most of us live our daily lives based upon time. Our actions are based upon time. We have certain things we do in the morning and there are activities resolved for the evening. Depending on who you are and what you want people to see, determines when you do what. It's all about time.

Paul talks to the people in Thessalonica about time as recorded in 1 Thessalonians 5:1-11. Paul's discussion about time has more to do with spiritual things than earthly events. He says to them do not be concerned about time and dates (vs. 1). Their concern for dates and times had to do with when Christ was coming. Many people were eagerly waiting and trying to anticipate when Christ would return. But Paul told them there was no need to write to them about dates and time.

Time was not important because the coming of the Lord was going to be like a thief in the night (vs. 2). The exact date and time of His coming is not important.

While some are saying "peace and safety", destruction will come upon them suddenly (vs. 3). People are living life as though they have secured eternal peace and there is no need to stay watchful of their soul.

Paul says about people living like that, destruction will come upon them suddenly as labor pains on a pregnant woman and they will not be able to escape (vs. 3b).

The time that does concern the believer is time related to light and darkness. Believers live in light and not in darkness. When you live in light it does not surprise you when He comes (vs. 4).

When you live right you can say He can come now, tomorrow, or next week. When He comes does not matter because you are ready! As a believer, you are not asleep, but always alert (vs. 6). Those who get drunk get drunk at night (vs. 7).

God did not appoint for anyone to suffer, but to receive salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ. He died so that we all (those who are awake or asleep) may live together (vs. 9, 10). God desires for us all to be saved. He saved the ones who live in the light and will save those who live in darkness.

One of every believer's daily goals should be to encourage one another. Paul says to them encourage one another and build each other up (vs. 11). The church must encourage one another.

It should be there to build someone up mentally, emotionally, and spiritually. If people are not walking in the light, encourage them. If they have been knocked and torn down by the activities of darkness build them up!
School Board Schedules Two Public Hearings On Class Size Requirements

The Hillsborough County School Board has scheduled two public hearings to discuss the school district's plans to meet the 2010-2011 requirements of Florida's class size amendment. The hearings, scheduled on July 20 and August 10, at 5:30 p.m. will take place in the auditorium at the Raymond O. Shelton School Administrative Center (ROSSAC) at 901 E. Kennedy Blvd., Tampa.

An amendment to Florida's Constitution approved by voters in 2002 requires school districts to restrict the number of students in classrooms. During the just-completed school year, districts were required to meet the restrictions based on school wide averages. In the upcoming school year, school districts will be required to meet a more stringent classroom-by-classroom standard. The classroom caps are as follows: 18 students for grades Pre-K-3, 22 students for grades 4-6, and 25 students for grades 7-12.

These hearings are to inform the public of the steps the School Board and Superintendent have taken to ensure the district will comply with the Constitution.

SMOKY BOURBON RIBS

2 slabs baby back ribs
1 cup Smoky Bourbon Barbecue Sauce

Dry Rub
1/4 cup dark brown sugar
4 teaspoons garlic salt
4 teaspoons chili powder
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon red pepper
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon white pepper

Liquid Seasoning
1/2 cup apple cider
1 1/4 cup apple jelly
1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon dry rub mix (above)

DIRECTIONS: Remove membrane from back of rib slabs. In small bowl, combine dry rub ingredients and mix well. Reserve one tablespoon rub for the liquid seasoning mixture. Generously apply dry rub onto front and back sides of ribs.

Build a charcoal fire for indirect cooking. Add a small aluminum pan to the void side of the grill and fill it halfway with water. When charcoal grill reaches 250°F, place ribs meat-side up on grill grate and cook under indirect heat for two hours and 15 minutes.

Remove ribs from grill. Place each slab meat-side down on its own doubled aluminum foil square. Mix liquid seasoning in a small bowl. Pour 1/2 cup liquid over each slab. Then, tightly wrap and seal each slab with aluminum foil. Place wrapped ribs back on the grill for one hour at 250°F. Remove ribs from grill and discard foil. Brush Smoky Bourbon Barbecue Sauce on both sides of ribs. Place ribs back on grill for 15 minutes, or until sauce caramelizes.

BBQ CHICKEN

vegetable oil, for grates
2 tablespoons paprika
2 tablespoons chili powder
coarse salt & ground pepper
1 chicken cut into 10 pieces
2 cups Barbecue Sauce

DIRECTIONS: Heat grill to medium. Lightly oil grates. In a small bowl, combine paprika, chili powder, 2 teaspoons salt, and 1/2 teaspoon pepper; sprinkle spice rub all over chicken. Reserve 1 cup barbecue sauce in small bowl for serving. Keep remaining sauce in another bowl for basting.

Grill chicken, turning often, until cooked through, 15-20 min. (if browning too quickly, move to cooler part of grill). During final 5 min. of cooking, baste chicken with barbecue sauce. Serve chicken with reserved sauce.

TERIYAKI BURGERS

Burgers (beef, turkey or chicken)
1/4 cup Teriyaki Sauce
2 tablespoons onion powder
2 tablespoons garlic powder

DIRECTIONS: Marinate 4 burgers in the Teriyaki sauce, onion powder, and garlic powder for 15 minutes. Don’t worry about exact measurements here, you just want to make sure that both sides of the burgers are well coated and nicely saturated.

Grill or cook until desired level of preparedness is done.
Health Department Warns Residents Of Mosquito-Bone Disease

The Hillsborough County Health Department reminds residents and visitors to avoid being bitten by mosquitoes that may cause encephalitis disease.

To reduce the risk of being bitten mosquitoes, DOH recommends that individuals remain diligent in their personal prevention efforts. These should include the "5 D's" for prevention:

Tips On Repellent Use:
- Always read label directions carefully for the approved usage before you apply a repellent.

Some repellents are not suitable for children.

- Products with concentrations of up to 30 percent DEET are generally recommended. Other effective mosquito repellents, as reported by the CDC in April 2003, contain Picaridin or oil of lemon eucalyptus. These products are generally available at local pharmacies. Look for active ingredients listed on the product label.
- Apply insect repellent to exposed skin, or onto clothing, but not under clothing.
- In protecting children, read label instructions to be sure the repellent is age-appropriate.
- Infants should be kept indoors, or mosquito netting should be used over carriers when mosquitoes are present.

Natural Ways To Fight Your Hay Fever

There are a few natural alternative supplements that will help your hay fever symptoms and maybe even help to prevent them from reoccurring.

Quercetin – might possibly help to inhibit the release of histamine, without the sneezing and other symptoms that come with allergies.

Butterbur – contains petasine, is as effective as an antihistamine but without the drowsiness.

Stinging Nettles – has compounds that help to enhance the body’s resistance to the effects of pollens and molds. This extract inhibits the inflammation that causes seasonal allergies.

Other alternatives you might want to try are: bromelain, ginkgo, goldenseal, licorice, milk thistle and ‘locally produced’ honey.

Also, by keeping your home and office free from dust, mold and even pet dander will help. You might want to try irrigating your sinuses with a neti pot or saline spray, which works well for people suffering from allergies, and sinus problems.

Could It Be COPD?

- Coughing and short of breath? Feeling a little more tired than usual after a day of walking? These could be symptoms of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), a progressive loss of lung function that affects millions of Americans.

- The most common symptom is shortness of breath, which is subtle enough for most people to ignore. Ignoring the early signs means that many people only see their doctor when the disease has progressed, and more chronic and bothersome COPD symptoms set in. Occasionally COPD comes on very suddenly; that’s usually because a patient has been ignoring symptoms.

Common symptoms of COPD are:
- Cough.
- Coughing up sputum.
- Spumon is the thicker mucus that is made in your lungs.
- Wheezing
- Tightness in the chest
- Difficulty sleeping
- Heart failure
- Swollen legs or feet
- Weight loss
- Loss of muscle strength
- A bluish tint to your lips or fingernails if you are not getting enough oxygen

Although it might be tempting to talk yourself out of worrying about a few episodes of feeling short of breath, don’t. Anyone who feels short of breath to contact his or her doctor. For a breathing function test called spirometry, which can be done in your doctor’s office.

People who are at risk for COPD should be even quicker to dial their doctor. These include current and former smokers and the rare person who may have inherited a genetic risk for emphysema from their parents.

Eye Health

The benefits of green tea consumption continues to grow. Another perk is that it may protect against glaucoma and other eye diseases. The Journal of Agricultural and Food Chemistry reported that the antioxidants in the tea are absorbed into the eye lens, retina and other eye tissues.

Hot Flashes

Take Black Cohosh. If you’re having hot flashes due to menopause, try this herb, it might help.

NYPD Officer Files Lawsuit Against Sean Bell Estate

A New York police officer involved in 2006 shooting death of unarmed Sean Bell has filed a countersuit against Bell’s estate claiming that he was injured by the husband-to-be before his death.

Officer Michael Carey filed the suit in a Brooklyn federal court last week and says that he “suffered severe leg injuries” after an intoxicated Bell got behind the wheel of a car after leaving his bachelor party on his wedding day.

According to Carey his leg was injured when Bell crashed into his vehicle before the officer got out and fired a shot.

Bell who was unarmed was gunned down in a barrage of fifty bullets that were sprayed into his vehicle.

Man Arrested For Having Sex With Horses

A 37-year-old Georgia man is in police custody after authorities say a neighbor caught him having sex with his horses and had to literally “peel him off” one of the animals.

Byron Christopher Jordan of Covington, Georgia was arrested Tuesday after the horses’ owner was told that Jordan was in his stable sexually abusing his animals.

The owner told police that Jordan was naked from the waist down when he witnessed him abuse three animals, hopping off one and running to another each time he tried to stop him.

According to the owner, he had to literally pry him off the third and final horse to detain him until police arrived.

Jordan was booked and charged with bestiality, a felony in Georgia.

NY Woman Claims Cops Knocked Eye Out

A Queens, New York woman claims that police knocked her eye out.

According to Jacqueline Dervain, the cops were called after a call was made that her daughter’s ex-boyfriend was threatening her.

The 56-year-old woman says that police walked in, yanked her off of her bed and tossed her into a door-knob, causing her eye to fall out.

NYPD disagrees however and says she pulled out a 12-gauge shotgun and warned, “Nobody’s going to leave here tonight!”

Transvestite Prostitute Gets Life After Stealing Bras

A man that told authorities he stole over 100 bras to support his career as a transvestite prostitute was sentenced to life in prison.

Darnell Wilson was arrested after being caught stealing brass from a Kohl’s clothing store in DeSoto County, Mississippi.

Before being captured, the self described “transvestite prostitute” led police on a high speed chase, going 80 miles per hour in rush hour traffic before being stopped by authorities who used spiked strips to blow his tires.

The pseudo woman of the night was given three consecutive life sentences under the Mississippi habitual offender law which says that felony arrests in the state can be combined with felony arrests in other states to define the accused as habitual offenders.

Pregnant 10-Year-Old Leads To Sex Charges For 3

NEWTON COUNTY, Ga. — Georgia Bureau of Investigation and Newton County Sheriff’s Office officials arrested two men in connection with the sexual molestation of a pregnant 10-year-old girl.

Deputies learned from workers with the Department of Family and Children Services that the 10-year-old girl had been molested for several years.

Police charged Danny Lee Arnold, 19, and his brother, Thomas Marcus Arnold, 21, with child molestation, incest, cruelty to children and sexual battery. Thomas Arnold faced an additional charge of aggravated sodomy.

While investigating the case, GBI agents also arrested the aunt of the Arnold brothers, Lisa Arnold, on incest charges. Agents said they found evidence that she had sex with her two nephews.
