NAACP Meets With B & D Supermarket Vice President

BY IRIS B. HOLTON
Sentinel City Editor

On Friday morning, members of the Hillsborough County Branch NAACP met with the Vice President of the B & D Supermarket. The store has been the topic of discussion after employees reportedly beat a customer thought to be a shoplifter.

Lisandro (Lee) Diaz, Vice President of B & D Supermarket, met with Dr. Carolyn Collins, President of the Hillsborough County Branch NAACP, Dr. Samuel Wright, Sr., First Vice President, and Attorney Brenda Townsend Walker, Chairman of the NAACP Legal Defense Committee. The meeting took place at a neutral location.

During the meeting, Diaz recounted the circumstances that led to his approaching 28-year-old Darwin McNish. He stated that he observed McNish, who was wearing an orange jacket, eating something and then putting something into his pocket. Diaz also explained he became suspicious because people frequenting the store have often eaten food or consumed drinks leaving the discarded wrappers on the shelves and leave without paying for the items.

Diaz said he asked the cashiers if McNish had paid for the peanuts, two said he had not gone through their line, and the third did not respond. McNish had already left the store when Diaz approached him and asked for the receipt.

Diaz also said the incident quickly escalated and that he wants to ensure that nothing of this magnitude ever happens again. He also stated that he has laid off one employee in the meat department and reduced the hours of another. The cashiers' hours have also been reduced. Diaz said he was not blaming the loss of revenue solely on the incident, but the business has also been hurt by several months of road construction at the intersection of N. 40th Street and E. Hillsborough Avenue.

Pearlyana was moved into first grade in January after being able to recognize 40,000 words. Nearing the end of the school year, she is at 178,000 words, her parents explained.

Pearlyana has been competing on all levels in all areas since the age of 3. She has first and second place trophies, gold cups and superior ratings in piano, dance, gymnastics. She also has outstanding ratings in writing and math competitions.

Last Saturday, she took the 1st place trophy in Chinese Writing class, where she wrote a 3-page story in Chinese on her father. She spends 5 hours at the Tampa Bay Chinese School at the University of South Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields are hoping that they can raise $2,500 to make the trip to New Jersey, arriving on Friday. "We’re hoping some organization or business will help her and she can in turn bring them a report on the competition." Those who would like to contribute, may call Fields at (813) 416-7483 for additional information.

Pearlyana has 2 other siblings – Christiana Cynthia Fields (3) and Justin Parker (11).

Longtime Lincoln Gardens Resident Passes

Mrs. Lillian R. Harris Cusseaux quietly transitioned to her heavenly home on Wednesday, May 25, 2011 at St. Joseph’s Hospital. On April 28, 2011, she celebrated her 86th birthday at home with her family.

Mrs. Cusseaux, affectionately called “Lil,” a Tampa native born to the late Ira and Fannie Cusseaux, was raised in Hyde Park and educated in Hillsborough County Schools, beginning at Dobyville Elementary, George W. Carver Junior High and Don Thompson.

She was from a very large family blessed with the gift of music, singing and preaching. Her siblings included Lorenzo, Reva, Charles, Frances, Anna, Richard*, Albert, Fannie, Gloria and Harry. Deceased siblings are Freddie, Vivian, Nathaniel and Richard.

The Harris family worshipped at New Salem Missionary Baptist Church in Hyde Park, and many still are members today.

Mrs. Cusseaux worked for several years as a domestic helper in the home of the Sparlin family. She and her husband, the late Mr. Wright “Cherry Red” Cusseaux, at New Mt Zion Missionary Baptist Church. She loved attending Early Morning Worship until prohibited by her health.

Her home was always welcoming to her family, their friends and her community.

Mrs. Delores Sims, her neighbor of 60 years said, “I’ve lost a true friend, neighbor and a beautiful person.” From the house of Spain, Andrew Spain (childhood neighbor) stated, “Mrs. Cusseaux was well-known for her “neighboring, giving and loving spirit.” A devout Christian, she joined her son, Rev. Allen Cusseaux, at New Mt Zion Missionary Baptist Church. She loved attending Early Morning Worship until prohibited by her health.

Her home was always welcoming to her family, their friends and her community.

I n just a few days the school year will be over and thousands upon thousands of children will be free of their 8-hour school day and parents will struggle with the question of what do I do with my children?

There is a variety of answers to that question. But, whatever you decide to do with them, don’t let the summer swallow them up. Don’t let them waste the summer. Find them something useful to do. For those old enough to work, try to help them find a job. There is nothing wrong with youngsters working during the summer. They can help to buy their school clothes for the next school year.

Find programs that they can enroll in that will prove educational or beneficial to them. Try to get them enrolled in a summer school program.

Mt. Pleasant Middle School will host a Math, Science and Reading Academy at the school this summer that will be FREE to 6th, 7th and 8th graders.

Some libraries will have summer reading programs that you can enroll your child in. Then there are the Boys and Girls Clubs, the City and County Recreational Centers, and many churches will have summer programs to keep your child busy.

There are so many things that can be made available to your child over the summer. Find something constructive for your child to do. You know the age-old saying, ‘an idle mind is the devil’s workshop.’

You don’t want your child’s mind to be the devil’s workshop and you surely don’t want your child to turn over to the “street” to keep him or her busy during the summer. You may not like the results.

Parents, do you want your child’s summer to be as productive as possible. When your child returns to school next school term, we don’t want them reporting that they spent their summer in and out of juvenile court. It is important that you don’t let your child’s mindset idle over the summer.

If you can’t think of anything for your child to do, then ask someone else, they might have some ideas.

Colonel Israel Shreve, Cromwell fought in the battles of Trenton and Princeton (1776 — 1777), Brandywine (1777), Monmouth (1778) and Yorktown (1781). When discharging from the Army, Cromwell was awarded a pension of $96 a year in recognition of his honorable service, and settled on a farm in New Jersey, where he raised a large family.

Jordan Freeman died valiantly in the Battle of Groton Heights (1781), one of the fiercest battles of the Revolution. Even though he had been assigned to “non-combat battle support functions,” Freeman met the leading British commander as the British stormed Freeman’s unit’s fortifications.

During hand-to-hand combat, Freeman killed the British major. Lambo Latham, another Black non-combat soldier, died alongside Freeman that day, as they had both volunteered to fight instead of retreating to safety.

While the names of the majority of unknown Black infantrymen who fought during the American Revolution are not known, Colonel, Cromwell and Freeman’s names join the list of Black men who fought bravely and valiantly for American freedom. Harambee!

Man Freed After 2009 Conviction Overturned

Baltimore - A Baltimore man has been freed after an appeals court overturned his conviction. Darryl White, 25, was charged in the attempted murder of 3 Baltimore police officers in 2008 that claimed the lives of his 2 cousins. He was convicted on weapons charges and served 2 years in prison. The Maryland Court of Special Appeals overturned his 12-year sentence and his conviction on conspiracy and carrying and transporting a weapon in a vehicle charges.

"I’m just relieved. I’m glad I can put this behind me and move on. Words can’t express how I feel," White said. The court determined the evidence presented against White was insufficient.

When I woke up Saturday, May 21st, to clear blue skies, a blazing sun and a steady ground free of shakes and trembles, I wasn't surprised. Even after hearing and reading about the prediction of a massive earthquake that was supposed to end life as we knew it that morning, I still planned on watching the Miami Heat play the Chicago Bulls on Sunday May 22nd. That's because I can only be Y2K'd once. After that debacle 11 years ago, I realized that not only are people wrong 99.9% of the time when forecasting these world-ending events, but they are often a little nuts as well.

Case in point. The pastor, Harold Camping, who spent hundreds of thousands of his church's money to spread the word that the end had indeed arrived, has now come out and said that his calculations were off a smidgen. Instead of May 21st, he's now stating that God has re-scheduled our demise for October. I guess there was some type of scheduling conflict.

In response to Pastor Camping's new assessment, I only have one thing to say .... Stop ... Please ... Stop. I mean it's bad enough that he led people down this same road 17 years ago. Now, instead of giving us the obligatory, "My Bad," apology for once again giving out bad information, he insists on killing us all off to satisfy his own apocalyptic fetish.

I get the fact that he's 89-years-old and can probably already smell the inside of his coffin. But what good does it do to take us with him? The saddest part is that, more than likely, there is at least one family in Oakland California, where Camping's church is located, who gave away all of their belongings in anticipation of his predictions coming to pass. While I don't harbor much sympathy for those who follow fools, I can't help but wonder what they're thinking right now.

It may be time for the government to step in on this issue. Since they enjoy making laws barring just about everything, maybe they can protect the extremely gullible by passing some kind of anti-false prophecy legislation. Something with a penalty stiff enough that it will make people think twice before spewing their doomsday B.S.

Until then, I imagine we'll have to keep surviving these alleged brushes with death, including the big one that's supposed to occur on December 21, 2012, before people stop being so concerned with when they're going to die and start focusing on how they're going to live.

TALLAHASSEE - Concerned that legislation awaiting executive approval may place the state's taxpayers at unnecessary risk, Senate Democratic Leader Pro Tem Arthenia Joyner (D-Tampa) is urging Republican Governor Rick Scott to veto HB 5305. The bill clears the way for eliminating all medical care oversight of inmates in Florida's prisons.

"I believe abolishing this entity would place the State of Florida at great legal risk," wrote Senator Joyner in a letter sent Tuesday to the governor. "As a result of a 1972 federal lawsuit (Costello v. Wainwright), the [Correctional Medical Authority] was created to survey and monitor the provision of physical and mental health care in the state correction system."

"Since its creation, the CMA has ensured that inmates receive adequate, reasonable, and cost effective health care services, thus successfully preventing federal court actions and interventions.

"I am concerned that the extensive privatization of the DOC's correctional health care services could potentially make the state vulnerable to costly and lengthy legal challenges." The passage of HB5305 earlier this year re-ignited a controversy over Florida's ability to self-monitor medical care it delivers to more than 100,000 prisoners. That ability was successfully challenged 25-years ago in Costello v. Wainwright. The class action lawsuit alleged constitutional rights violations due to inadequate medical care, insufficient staffing, overcrowding, and poor sanitation and led to federal oversight.

The court relinquished that control in 1993 to the CMA. Florida's abandonment of that commitment, Senator Joyner warned, could not only land the state back under federal supervision, but expose the state to expensive lawsuits as well. Florida taxpayers would be forced to absorb.

On Sunday, May 22nd, Greater Bethel Missionary Baptist Church was declared as a historic site by Hillsborough County's Historic Advisory Council. There were a number of special guests on the program which included Shirley Fox-Knowles (City Clerk, City of Tampa), Mayor Bob Buckhorn, Honorable Councilman Frank Reddick, Russell Person, Senator Arthenia Joyner, Sister Vanessa Pablo, and Reverend Oscar Johnson, Jr., (Greater Bethel's Pastor of 32 years).

Ms. Fox-Knowles thanked all in attendance by stating, "Your presence shows that this is important." She also thanked Person for bringing the request for the historical plaque.

Reverend Johnson and Person were also presented with plaques by the Honorable Councilman Frank Reddick. All in attendance were blessed with a selection from Greater Bethel's Men's Chorus and Ms. Vanessa Pablo.

Great Bethel Missionary Baptist Church was built in 1893 and has been spiritually nurturing the Tampa Bay community for the past 118 years. As boldly stated by Person, 'Matthew 16:18 stated 'And I say unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.' Greater Bethel has been on this rock for 118 years!"

Mayor Bob Buckhorn expressed his enthusiasm by saying, "This church is a beacon of light in this city, and is known throughout the Tampa Bay area. As a local resident, I am thankful that Greater Bethel was declared a historic site by the Hillsborough County Historic Advisory Council."

In the words of Reverend Oscar Johnson, Jr., "God reigns forever. I am grateful for your support. We are known throughout the Tampa Bay area. As a local resident, I am thankful that Greater Bethel was declared a historic site by the Hillsborough County Historic Advisory Council."

Unveiling of the historic plaque was followed by a special homecoming service with Bishop Warren A. Jackson. Nadine Gibson, Greater Bethel's First Lady, said the church was built "for the Past and Future Generations." The service was followed by an awards ceremony featuring several special guests that were presented plaques by the Honorable Councilman Frank Reddick, Mayor Bob Buckhorn, and Sister Vanessa Pablo.

Jones. "Up to now, I've been doing virtually everything myself, but the clock is ticking down and there are still a lot of things that need to be taken care of. I can't do it all by myself, and I really need help to make sure this year's event is the best of them all.

Jones said every Monday, meetings are held at the Robert Saunders Library on Nebraska Avenue at 6 p.m. "Hardly anyone is attending the meetings, and I really need to get the word out." Jones said if there is anyone who can assist him, call (813) 458-6432.
A. T. Jones Academy Rebounds With New Program

BY TAMECA JOHNSON
Freelance Writer

The school year is quickly coming to a close for students across the Bay Area. For the staff at A. T. Jones Academy in North Tampa, the wind down brings reflections of extreme highs and minor setbacks. Through it all, they’ve endured and now feel they have more to offer educationally because of it.

Jones Academy came under fire by the Hillsborough County School District when it discovered administrators had mistakenly enrolled nearly two dozen four-year-olds into the public charter school program. Hillsborough School officials forced Principal Brenda Kearse to withdraw all of the students in question, leaving the school in jeopardy of having to repay nearly $80,000 in state funds used for the children’s education.

Ms. Kearse and the Board of Directors at Jones Academy quickly put together a plan to implement a new program called Accelerated Scholars, designed to continue the accelerated learning the toddlers had been exposed to since enrollment. The program is now up and running.

Ms. Kearse says the plan was an immediate hit. “The parents of many of those students were determined to wait until the new program was in place.”

Fourteen students are enrolled.

Jones Academy is a K-5 free charter elementary school that specializes in Math, Science and Technology. This reporter toured the campus recently and visited a classroom of four and five-year-olds who were working hard at addition problems and cursive writing. They also sang in Spanish and French.

A class of second graders was completing math problems in the Chinese language of Mandarin. There was also a high tech power point presentation on the rise and fall of Osama bin Laden presented by a group of fourth graders.

Adrian Anthony is a 9-year-old 3rd grader who transferred in December to Jones Academy from Baycrest Elementary. He proudly admits, “Baycrest didn’t have technology, so I never knew about this stuff until I came to A.T. Jones.”

Ms. Kearse says getting through this year was a short-term goal. The 37-year veteran of public schools says she plans to continue efforts to keep Jones Academy on the cutting edge of technology, with help from such sources as Apple Computers. Apple representatives toured the school and verbally committed to providing Jones Academy with more of the latest iPad.

Middleton High School baseball coach, Vernon Slater, is a very happy man. Of the 25 baseball players from Hillsborough County that played in last Wednesday’s Senior All-Star Game, three came from Middleton. The only other Hillsborough County School sending three players is King.

Coach Slater said he and five other coaches from Middleton selected infielder Jordan Morrell, pitcher Eric Comstock, and outfielder Demetre Taylor to represent Middleton.

Taylor, who also plays football, has been given a football scholarship to Eastern Illinois State University where he’ll also be able to play baseball. “I’m alright going that far from home, although I am a momma’s boy,” said Taylor.

Eric Comstock will be attending Eastern Illinois University on a full scholarship, and Morrell said although he’s committed to the University of South Florida, he’s still not sure. “All of the Major League scouts were there and that’s big with the draft coming up,” said Coach Slater.

“Tyrone Keys and his organization, All Sports Community Services, Unsigned Preps is looking forward to expanding and adversely impact from junior colleges and universities evaluating the players. But, this game was mostly for the Major League Baseball draft.”

Coach Slater said this is the fifth year the game has been played and this year it was held at Tropicana Field in St. Petersburg. “Hillsborough County has won the tournament every year,” said Coach Slater.

“This was my first year selected to coach at the game. This was also an excellent opportunity to promote the program at Middleton. We’ve had more than 17 players who’ve either gotten scholarships or signed Major League contracts.”

Taylor’s mother, Ms. Joyce Taylor, said the program deals with real life issues which often arise and adversely impact many college football players. "The new program I’ve started with the help of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers is a preparation session with kids who have already gotten scholarships. I want to give them the tools they need to be successful. While they are in college, the support will still be there."

Sailor collaborated with Eric Vance, Tampa Bay Buccaneers player development, to devise a program to benefit college bound high school student-athletes. Seniors from Hillsborough, Pinellas and Pasco Counties participated in a one day symposium.

The curriculum was designed to promote awareness and ease the difficult transition from high school to college as well as tackle common challenges faced by numerous collegiate level athletes.

The program deals with critical issues which often arise and adversely impact many college football players.

Unsigned Preps is looking forward to expanding and creating many future partnerships which enable them to continue annual programs and events to uplift youth, athletes and more importantly, the community.

Heating up Heat vs. Mavs Again, and Miami More Than Wade Now

Chicago Bulls center Joakim Noah, right, gets boxed out by Miami Heat forwards LeBron James (6) and Chris Bosh (1) during the second quarter of Game 5 of the NBA basketball Eastern Conference finals Thursday, May 26, 2011, in Chicago. At left is Heat guard Dwyane Wade (3). The Heat won 85-80, and advanced to the NBA Finals.

An unstoppable one-man show against Dallas five years ago, Dwyane Wade is bringing LeBron James and Chris Bosh to the rematch.

And the Miami Heat, who celebrated like champions last July, can throw an even bigger party if they can beat Dirk Nowitzki and the Mavericks again.

In the first season with their Big Three, the Heat welcome the Mavs back to Miami on Tuesday (tonight at 9 p.m. on ABC) for an unusually early NBA finals, the first in 25 years that will begin in May.

The Heat clinched the first of multiple finals appearances that were forecast for them last summer, when James and Wade led a late rally to beat Chicago 89-80 on Thursday, setting up another series with Mark Cuban’s team.

"There's no sense of relief right now," James said. "We still have lots of work to do. We have a little bit of time tomorrow to go over what we accomplished. We don't take for granted this win and being Eastern Conference champion. We have a lot of work to do still and we look forward to the challenge."

Organization Gives Student-Athletes A Second Chance

In January of this year, Ricky Sailor founded an organization called Unsigned Preps. His mission is to help high school athletes in their efforts to succeed.

"A lot of kids don’t get scholarships, and I want to make sure they at least have an opportunity to attend college."

"My personal journey took me from West Tampa to Texas Tech University and now I’m trying to find a kid to take the same journey."

Sailor said working with Tyrone Keys and his organization, All Sports Community Services, Unsigned Preps has helped more than 70 kids nationwide to attend college.

Tampa Bay Buccaneers tight end Kellen Winslow was catching passes from quarterback Josh Freeman this week.

Winslow ran several patterns with precision and ease. He visualized defenders and fought them off as he haulin in one catch after another. There was nothing Winslow could not do during a practice organized by Freeman to keep players sharp during the NFL lockout.

For the first time in years, Winslow was without pain in his right knee. His knee felt so good, he did not have it scoped this offseason. The last time Winslow was without traditional offseason procedure, he thinks, was in 2008.

One reason or Winslow's newfound health is his learning to use a knee simulation machine more effectively.

Winslow had 66 receptions for 730 yards and five touchdowns last season despite knee problems. Freeman looks forward to seeing what his tight end can accomplish while still being pain free.

Winslow could have trained in San Diego, where he resides, to prepare for the upcoming season, but committed to working out with Freeman this offseason.

In the future, Winslow plans to work out at the University of Miami with several alumni, including Reggie Wayne, Andre Johnson and Jeremy Shockey. Winslow is trying to convince Freeman to take the trip with him because he loves the close relationship they are developing.
LeBron Flattered, But Thinks Jordan Is Best Ever

MIAMI — Scottie Pippen said LeBron James may be basketball's greatest player ever.

Among those who disagree: LeBron James.

The Miami Heat forward provided his reaction to Pippen's comparison between James and Michael Jordan on Saturday, essentially saying he was flattered by the sentiment but simply does not believe he's done enough to merit mention among the game's highest echelons.

"I'm not better than Jordan," James said.

Pippen - who won six championships alongside Jordan in Chicago during the Bulls' epic run in the 1990s - told ESPN Radio on Friday that while Jordan is "probably the greatest scorer to play the game," James "may be the greatest player to ever play the game."

Pippen even backed up the comments later on Twitter, hours after his words sparked a bit of a firestorm, though he tried to clarify a bit by saying that while he thinks Jordan "is the greatest," James "could" reach that pinnacle in time.

James seemed mildly uncomfortable by the discussion.

"Michael's an unbelievable player," James said Saturday. "I've got a long way - long way - to be mentioned as far as one of the all-time greats. Not even just Jordan. There's a lot of great players who have played in this league. Larry Bird, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, all these guys who are floating around with multiple rings, Bill Russell, all these guys who have pioneered this game.

"I'm gracious. Humbled by Scottie's comments, especially with him being a teammate of his and seeing Michael on a day-to-day basis. But as far as me, I'm not going to sit here and say I'm better than Jordan. I'm not better than Jordan."

Buccaneers Aqib Talib Indicted

Two months after being arrested for aggravated assault, Tampa Bay Buccaneers cornerback Aqib Talib is being indicted for shooting at his sister's boyfriend. Police have said that they believe the football star and his mother shot at the man, Shannon Billings, on March 21, but he was not injured.

The cornerback, 25, was let out on bail at the end of March, totaling $25,000 bond. The charge is a second-degree felony, which could mean five to 20 years in prison.

The indictment does not mean Talib has been convicted of a crime, but there is an official charge at hand.

Talib denies the accusations that he shot the gun, but his mother tells police a different story. NBC says that Talib's mother, Okolo Talib, told officials that she did hear a gunshot and it could have been from her son. The cornerback is also accused of whipping Billings with the pistol.

The police have said that while talking to Talib, they received many confusing statements and opted to indict him in relation to the events.

Sean Kingston Moved To ICU After Watercraft Crash

MIAMI — Hip-hop singer Sean Kingston has been stabilized and moved to the intensive care unit at a hospital after crashing his watercraft into a Miami Beach bridge, his publicist said Monday.

The publicist, Joseph Carozza, said Kingston's family is grateful for everyone's prayers and support.

Kingston and a female passenger were injured when the watercraft hit the Palm Island Bridge around 6 p.m. Sunday, Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission spokesman Jorge Pino said. The Miami Herald reports that a passing boater saw the accident and took the two on board his vessel.

Both were hospitalized early Monday at Ryder Trauma Center, but Pino said he didn't know their conditions.

Authorities are investigating the crash, and "nothing at this point would indicate that alcohol played a role," Pino said.

Kingston rose to fame with his 2007 album "Beautiful Girls" and was also featured on songs by artists including Justin Bieber.

On Twitter, Bieber posted a message of support for Kingston:

"Got my friend Sean Kingston in my prayers tonight," Bieber tweeted early Monday. "A true friend and big bro. Please keep him in your prayers tonight as well."
