First Lady Michelle Obama was in Tampa Thursday promoting her 'Let's Move' initiative, which is all about "folks from every sector of our society stepping up and coming together on behalf of our kids," she said. Her appearance was at National Supermarket where she was joined by Goya Foods President, Bob Unanue. Goya Foods is the largest Hispanic-owned, U.S. food company. The First Lady said, "One of the pillars of 'Let's Move!' is empowering parents with the information they need to make healthy choices." Goya has committed to promoting the USDA's MyPlate or MiPlato to remind families about making healthy choices with posters, cookbooks, recipes and pamphlets.

Entrepreneur Has Master Plan To Empower The Community

BY IRIS B. HOLTON

More than ten years ago, Kenny Rushing established himself in the real estate market. However, the fall of the economy took its toll in every area, especially real estate.

Rushing has stayed afloat by redefining his business and now he is ready to focus on the Tampa Bay. Recently, he introduced his plan to empower the community.

“I believe that real estate is the cornerstone of the Florida economy. During the real estate boom, I employed more than a hundred contractors, ranging from general contractors to electricians.”

Now, I am in the process of raising $100 million to buy properties in the Tampa Bay area during the coming years. The plan is that I will be able to buy homes and sell quickly by providing cash in three days as long as they have a clear title and a bank payoff.

“This will enable the owners to have cash quicker than putting their homes on the market.”

Secondly, I intend to rehabilitate those homes and resell them to those individuals who lost their homes because of foreclosure, predatory lending, loss of employment, or other reasons.

“These individuals, who may have some credit issues, will be able to purchase a home with owner financing and reasonable interest rates.”

Rushing further stated that now is the time to purchase land at rock bottom prices and make this vision a reality. He further stated that he is currently meeting with potential investors in the community.

Since entering the real estate market, Rushing has been involved in all aspects of the industry including purchasing, selling, and rehabilitating. He has been a guest speaker at events throughout the United States. Last year, he was invited to five countries to speak. This year, he already has a dozen engagements in foreign countries.

In keeping with his empowerment vision and his focus on the bay area, Rushing also plans to build a gated community.

“I was able to survive because I sold off all of my assets in other states. Now, I am concentrating on the Tampa Bay area. Building a gated community will provide employment for hundreds of people, who will provide other opportunities, such as home ownership,” he said.

Attorney Shares Opinion on Voting Laws Hearing

BY IRIS B. HOLTON
Sentinel City Editor

On Friday, at 1 p.m., public testimony will take place at the George Edgecomb Courthouse for the first hearing to examine the impact of the proposed changes in state voting laws.

U.S. Senator Dick Durbin, a Democrat from Illinois, will lead the hearings of the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee’s Subcommittee on the Constitution, Civil Rights, and Human Rights.

“Republic of Conyers said, ‘The loudest sound that anyone will ever hear in a Democratic society is the voice of a voter in an election.’ I love that quote and believe this new law will mute the voices of the voter, especially from Americans,” Dr. Brenda Walker, Counsel for the Hillsborough County Branch of the NAACP said.

Dr. Walker further stated that she hopes the hearing will result in the new laws being repealed. She further said that her concerns were personally as well as professional.

“The concerns I have are that these laws really return us to the Pre-Voting Rights Act of 1965, and it’s an attack on Civil Rights. She said the alleged rationale behind the laws is to reduce voter fraud.

‘I’m hoping the law will be repealed. It is morally and ethically imperative that it be repealed.”

OTG Sports 2012 NFL Draft clients don’t just standout, but “Own The Game” in the Battle of Florida. OTG Sports Management, led by Florida native and former Je­ suit football star, Chris Mar­ tin, has successfully landed the top talent in the Tampa Bay area for the second straight year.

Last week, OTG (On The Go) Sports had five of their clients from the Tampa/St. Petersburg area participate in the inaugural Battle of Florida College Football All-Star game, coached by Bobby Bowden and Howard Schnellen­ berger.

After showcasing themselves and their abilities with a dominant week of practice for the over 100 NFL execu­ tives and scouts on hand, OTG’s clients capped it off with a shining performance in the game. Their clients didn’t just participate in the game, they starred in it.

Joshua Ballamy (Louisville/Boca Ciega HS), Ryan Davis (Bethune-Cookman/Blake HS), Stephen Garcia (South Carolina/Jef­ ferson HS), Ty Jones (Florida State/Middleton HS) and Daron Rose (North Ala­ bama/Jefferson HS) all played major roles in the North squad’s 51-3 victory over the South.

Ryan Davis, a high­ motor defensive end, started it off with a big sack in the first quarter, and running back, Ty Jones followed it up with several strong runs, two great catches, and a touchdown.

Offensive tackle Daron Rose provided excellent rush lanes and time in the top talent in the Tampa Bay area for the second straight year.

Local Law Enforcement Says 'Drop Scam' Is Growing

BY LEON B. CREWS

Detective Sal Augeri with the Tampa Police Department’s Criminal Intelligence Bureau, said the “Drop Scam” criminal network is growing, and without the proper resources, they aren’t going to be able to slow it down.

Augeri said according to information they’ve received, the scam artists recently collected on two big paydays, and they are gearing up in expectation of even more.

“I’ve gotten a lot of reports this year, and ledgers have been made. It’s shocking to read about how much is being done in a federal assistance, the growth of the scam, and without the resources, there’s nothing they can do.

Augeri said he has received a large number of reports from people who want to assist them, but without the resources, there’s nothing they can do.

“The upcoming GOP convention will shrink our forces even more. I also feel the city shouldn’t have to foot the entire bill for this investigation. It’s all federal. In the next two months it’s really going to hit big.”

Kevin White’s Request To Travel Denied

On Wednesday, a federal judge rejected a request by convicted former County Commissioner, Kevin White, to fly to Kansas so he could retrieve his son’s car and drive it back to Florida.

White reportedly also sought permission to drive his daughter to a university in North Carolina.

White is awaiting sentencing in March on federal bribery and corruption convictions.

Hearing Set For Man Charged With Five Murders

BY IRIS B. HOLTON
Sentinel City Editor

On Friday, (today), Don tae Rashawn Morris will appear before a Hillsborough Circuit Judge. The hearing will possibly determine which of the five murders trials will be first. Two of the trials will be death penalty cases.

Mark Cox, spokesman for the Hillsborough County State Attorney’s Office said, “There is a hearing on Friday and Morris is on the docket. It is unknown which case the State will pursue first. The cases don’t necessarily have to be tried in the order that the murders occurred.”

Morris was released from prison on April 10, 2010. In less than three months after his release, police said he committed five murders.

The murder of 21-year-old Derek Anderson took place on May 18, 2010, at the Kenneth Court Apartment Complex. Police said the death occurred during an apparent attempted robbery.

Morris was charged with first-degree murder and attempted robbery in January 2011. The Hillsborough County Sheriff’s Office investigated the shooting death of 25-year-old Harold Wright on June 8, 2010. Wright had been shot in the head and his body was discovered on the side of the road at 2003 51st Street, S., shortly after midnight.

Detectives with the Sheriff’s Office said their investigation revealed evidence that linked Morris to Wright’s murder, on June 8, 2010. The cause of death was a gunshot wound to the head.

The final murder charges stem from a traffic stop involving two Tampa Police officers. The result proved to be deadly.

According to police, at 2:15 a.m., on Tuesday, June 29, 2010, Tampa Police Officers David Curtis and Jeffrey Kocab, both 31, were on routine patrol in East Tampa. Officer Curtis observed a 1994 Red Toyota Camry that didn’t have the license plate visible. He turned his lights on behind the vehicle at N. 50th Street and E. Dr. M. L. King, Jr., Blvd. Officer Kocab, also 31, was his backup unit.

The female driver, later identified as Ms. Cortnee Brantley, stopped the car at N. 50th St. and fled on foot. Ms. Brantley fled in the vehicle, police said.

The shooting was captured on the dash cam of the police cruiser. Officer Kocab was pronounced dead shortly after arriving at Tampa General Hospital. Officer Curtis was placed on life support and pronounced dead at 8:30 a.m., that morning.

Morris surrendered on July 2nd, following an intensive nation-wide manhunt.

Cox stated that the State Attorney’s Office will pursue the death penalty for the deaths of the two officers. He stated that Florida law considers the murder of a law enforcement officer in the performance of his death as an aggravating factor. He also said that violence in this pass can also be used.

In addition to the five first-degree murder charges, Morris is facing charges ranging from being a felon in possession of a firearm to armed robbery. He was also charged with attempting to escape while being transported in July 2010.
President Obama And The State Of The Union Address

Of all the statements he made during his most recent State of the Union address, perhaps President Barack Obama’s most powerful comments were his first comments when he said, “For the first time in nine years, there are no Americans fighting in Iraq.” He then said, “For the first time in two decades, Obama bin Laden is not a threat to this country.” The audience roared. And it was just the country.

Along with an initially smug-mouthed Congress and media representatives, no doubt, we television viewers soon saw and became a part of repeated standing ovations for America’s first African American president.

Were we cheering because he was Black, or were we applauding in triumph when he said, “In the six months before I took office, we lost nearly four million jobs. And then we lost another four million before our policies were in full effect” [but when he said,] “In the last 22 months, businesses have created more than three million jobs.” [and then pronounced,] “The state of our union is getting stronger, and we’ve come too far to turn back now?”

We, on this editorial staff, doubt very seriously that President Obama’s color had anything to do with our positive response to his advice as to how we Americans should fix our beleaguered county.

American Schizophrenia: Family Values Versus Cain And Gingrich

Since it drew its first political breath, American government has been riddled with public sex scandals.

Take for instance, America’s first Secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton, who was rumored to have had an affair with married woman, Maria Reynolds. Imagination only knows how many Capitol Hill backdoor scandals have escaped the public eye. And now, the GOP has taken center stage, it may not be the center stage it wants.

If former Republican presidential candidate, Herman Cain had successfully seduced the women he was accused of harassing and had divorced his wife while she was on her sick bed in order to marry another woman then publicly admitted to it, do you think he would still be in the race for President of the United States?

We doubt Herman Cain, who gave up on the race, could have stood the public. However, his competitive colleague Newt Gingrich seems either to have no political ears to hear his detractors, or seemingly has a secret on somebody on Capitol Hill.

Call it different scenarios or whatever you like. We call it American Schizophrenia, a very twisted sense of right and wrong mixed with selective amnesia, which seems to have become an epidemic politically, these days.

Consequently, Newt Gingrich, who politically reminds us of the Roman Emperor, Caligula, may well win the Republican presidential nomination. Could Cain have done the same? Was color a factor? Only you will decide.

The State Of The Union Message

On last Tuesday, President Barack Obama delivered his third State of the Union speech.

This speech was different from any of the others he had delivered. The speech came from a more confident, a more defiant and a more determined Pres. Obama.

In his speech, the President made it quite clear that he was more determined than ever to create good jobs, build the middle class, improve education, reduce the nation’s debt, create a fairer tax system, increase our energy supply, shrink the size of government and create a smaller and easier efficient military.

While the President stressed bi-partisanship, he made it clear that he didn’t have the luxury of waiting on Congress any more. The President said he can’t wait and neither can the American people.

It is obvious that the President will have to accomplish these things without the Republican Party. The majority of his party criticized his speech and gave the impression that they would continue to be the obstructionists that they have been all during President Obama’s message.

The President said he could use more of his executive powers to get things done in 2012.

In his 2012 State of the Union message, the Republicans saw and heard a President that they didn’t want to see or hear.

Listen to the President’s speech. Let you will see he is in a fighting and campaign mode. It was the President that voters have come to know and to love.

They saw a Pres. Obama who is still willing to work with Republicans, but not willing to wait on them or to back down on his goals for 2012.

President Obama has not really started to campaign for a second second term yet. The State of the Union speech is a great indication of his race to the top.

The Republican reaction to the President’s speech was typical. Someone in the party wrote negative talking points about the speech and circulated it among Republican lawmakers and talking heads and they all put their negative spin on a brilliant speech.

If the President could borrow some words from John Paul Jones, the patriot, his State of the Union message had said, “I have not yet begun to fight.”

See Red Tails

I started to talk about Tampa Mayor Bob Buckhorn’s decision not to give Garissa pirates the key to the City. And though I’ve never met the man, his spunk inspires me. Did you hear what Tampa’s top chief pirate as to why he wasn’t giving him the key to the City? Said Bobby, “It took me 22 months to get you, and not giving it up!” Now, if that’s not a brother, I’ll shine your shoes (provided they are shiny-dusty; go get that rust out of your life, it didn’t). I must admit I didn’t know most of the actors in Red Tails.

Cuba Gooding, Jr., I knew. Terrence Howard, I knew. And a few others I recognized by face. But the remaining cast was one, which hip-hoppers no doubt would be quite familiar with. Did that stop any of the actors from turning in Academy Award performances? Not on your life, it didn’t.

But for those of you who still have no idea what I’m talking about when I mention such names as “Turkessel Airmen,” Col. Benjamin O. Davis, Jr., or the “Nineth­ ninth Pursuit Squadron,” let me mention one or several names with which you might be more familiar.

ADOLF HITLER! Have you heard of him? WORLD WAR II! Are you familiar with that?

Racism, discrimination, and second class citizenship! Do any of those words strike you familiar? Yes, Red Tails is about all of that. And, by the way, there’s a love-story in the middle of the movie, too.

What do you mean you want to know about the love story? Are there any sex scenes? Does it have a hint as to who’s the baby-daddy? I’m not telling you! What I will tell you is that the movie I saw last Saturday made me cry.

A white woman who also saw the movie me wweeping. She came over, put her arm around me, and we cried together. So, you think that’s funny! What if you had been there and seen it for yourself? We both had heard the roar of those swooping British Merlin engines as those sleek Mustang fighter planes flew through the heavens. We felt the gods of earth and sky. What if you had watched those young Black men do their thing and walk through that American history with no idea what they do or walk when they know what in the world they’re doing?

What if you had sat in that dark movie theater and been part of history...not just Black history...not simply American history, but world history. Then you too would have wept for the joy of knowing how great a humanity we have always been. And that includes us, too.

Yes, I saw movie Red Tails, last week. And Monday, I called the Hillsborough County School administration and suggested my new geography teachers direct their students to see the movie as part of their Black History Experience. They go, too. I bet you’ll cry.
"You have got to be kidding me?" Those were the first words out of my mouth when I opened up the newspaper to the story of the Ku Klux Klan on the front page of the Florida Sentinel.

At the bottom of page 13 was a picture. At first glance, there wasn’t anything extraordinarily about it, just the typical club scene photograph of a group of young men having a good time.

But, it was the caption underneath the photo that had my jaw dropping.

The first two words said it all. "The Coons." I didn’t need to read the rest of the sentence to realize that someone had obviously lost his mind.

For a minute I thought I was hallucinating. But when I studied the picture again, sure enough, there were fifteen or so individuals making a letter "C" hand gesture. As far as I was concerned, it might as well have stood for clowns.

I couldn’t believe it. Here I was in 2012 reading a black-owned newspaper three days after the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. holiday and looking back at me from the page was a group of Black people referring to themselves by a phrase you’d only expect to find in Ku Klux Klan handbook.

I mean really, Coons, as in the most despicable, hillbilly, red-neck, backwoods term ever used against people of color? I guess a-boo crew or jungle bunnies was already taken?

I have no idea what this group was up to, or how long they’ve been around, but I’m curious to know if they have a logo? I’m thinking if they did, it would probably be something like the little Lawson boys, with a big stupid smile holding a watermelon in one hand and a piece of fried chicken in the other. I mean, judging by the direction they’re already headed, how could you put it past them?

Before I started writing this column I wanted to see if my thinking was a little too critical, so I approached a few men in here from a cross section of places like Boston, Baltimore, Miami, North Carolina, Baton Rouge, Philadelphia and even Cuba to see what they thought.

I showed each of them the picture. Without exception, every person who had a chance to view the photo had the same shock expression on his face. One guy from Harlem was so disgusted that all he could do was shake his head and ask, "My man, is this how you guys got down in Florida?" To which I reluctantly replied, "Apparently so."

What amazed me was that these men were from different age groups and from different parts of the country, but when it came down to recognizing something that they found universally offensive, they all agreed that Black people calling themselves coons was the dumbest and craziest thing they had ever heard. So the question is, "What are these knuckleheads in Tampa thinking?"

Somebody in this so-called "coon" gang, crew or whatever they’re supposed to be, knows the history behind that word. And the fact that they went along with it anyway, says to me that they care even less about themselves than they do about the same message they’re sending out to the world.

The saddest part about it is that at least a few of these guys are fathers. And there’s little doubt that some of these fools are calling their sons, "Lil Coon," "Coon, Jr." or "Baby Coon." So you can only imagine how messed up these kids are going to be in twenty years. Their children may take things a little further and begin calling themselves tar babies, spear-chunkers or even skillets.

When I think about it though, it’s not entirely their fault. Those of us 34-years or older share some of the responsibility. After years of embracing the word as a term of esteem, it was only a matter of time before another generation would come along who would adopt something even more distasteful. We opened the door for ignorance to blossom and now these new coons may become our children coming home to roost.

Right about now, the jaws of any so-called coon reading this are probably tighter than Lil Wayne’s jeans. But that’s a good thing, because now he can get a taste of how we feel about him. Then again, if he has the nerve to beat me getting mad, he probably still doesn’t get it anymore.

JUDY BRITO

Mother Of Slain Siblings Opens New Chapter In Her Life

Judy Brito has experienced situations in her life that caused her to take a step back, and fall into a stage of depression.

Shortly after her children, Kiara and Jeremi, were found shot to death in their South Tampa home, Brito found herself facing cocaine charges.

"The cocaine charges against me have been dropped, and now everything is looking up," said Brito.

"I’m a much stronger person now than I was before, and I’ve gotten a lot of support from the community."

Brito said the faculty and staff of Robinson High school have planned an event to honor her and her daughter, Kiara, who was a student there.

"I’m really happy now," said Brito.

"This is my chance to start over, make a difference, and help a lot of kids. I’d like to do some traveling to help kids all over, not just here in Tampa. I’m going to get my non-profit status so I’ll be able to do a lot more."

Brito said when she lost her children, she felt her life was over and she had nothing left to live for.

"I thought I was being punished for a lot of bad decisions I had made in my life. I had to overcome a lot on my own, and I have friends who spent a lot of time with me, and friends of my kids have also stayed with me.

"Now that I’m single again I have to be strong enough to take care of myself, and I know I’m ready to do that now. I’m very excited and this chapter of my life will be all positive."

Brito said she had given some thought to starting a family again, but decided to put that on hold for a while.

"There’s a lot that has to be done before I can even think about starting a family again."

On Tuesday evening, President Barack Obama delivered his State of the Union Speech. During the speech, he talked about the positive changes that have happened during his administration, including the end of the war in Iraq.

President Obama also talked about corporate taxes and rewarding companies who choose to remain on American soil. Some readers who listened to the President shared their comments about his speech.

Howard Harris said, “The President finally dealt with the lie of the flat tax by saying that earning or invested income over $1 million should be taxed at 30%. The Republicans try to sell a flat tax on earned income (income gained from work). Under a flat tax system, the rich would pay no tax because their income is not earned, but comes from investments.”

Ms. Ann Jenkins said, “The President did a wonderful job on his State of the Union speech. He covered the most important issues that needed to be covered, i.e. tax breaks for the rich and health care for the poor.

“When we are out there campaigning, we need to make the people see what will happen if we allow the Republicans to keep those seats. We didn’t vote and put the Tea Party in office, but the Republicans rely on them to make the decisions about our country.”

“African Americans, or Blacks, if that’s what you want to be called, had better get out there and help the President win this election in 2012, by getting to the poll and vote. The President needs your support.”

Last night, Anderson said, “In the State of the Union address, President Obama said, ‘We can either settle for a country where a shrinking number of people do really well, while a growing number of Americans barely get by, or we can restore an economy where everyone gets a fair shot, and their fair share and everyone plays by the same rules for everyone, or at least stop changing the rules when we start to become successful like the FCAT for our students.”

Ms. Ann Porter said, “The President seems to be in campaign mode for the 2012 election. He laid out specific and major accomplishments over the past three years and priorities for moving forward in fairness for all our citizens were well emphasized.

“The domestic and the global problems we face remain high in his plans. He appeared to be strong, intelligent and well qualified to answer this calling.”

Dr. George Fox said, “Overall, I was impressed by the President’s speech last night. It is the typical political speech to work together on a bipartisan basis to solve the challenges facing our nation. Even with our economy on an upward trajectory, there remain multiple economic and social problems to be tackled, all without simple – or partisan – solutions.

“The President’s top priorities are jobs and should be jobs and the economy. A critical pathway to economic growth and job creation is increased engagement in international markets, so we’re encouraged by the President’s attention to this issue last night.”

Danny Green said, “As a do-nothing president? Perhaps, they or we are in different dimensions.

“Yes, I saw, heard, and felt President Obama’s speech. And I was glad I called history’s bluff and voted for President Barack Obama. Ketso Hodges said, “I enjoyed watching the recap of President Obama’s speech. As long as I am President, I will work with anyone in this chamber to build on this moment. But I intend to fight obstruction with action.”

“President Obama stressed moving forward but made it very clear that he will not be stonewalled by a Republican-influenced Congress that has given him a number of negative votes on issues they have at times championed in order to attempt to make him look weak.

“President Obama finally realizes what we already knew a GOP-run Congress will never work with him. It is good faith because they passionately hate what he stands for.”

Maurice Kemp said, “President Barack Obama’s 2012 State of the Union address was well composed, covered a number of important topics and was delivered with earnest and passion.

“One line from his address grabbed my attention the most, ‘We can either settle for a country where a shrinking number of people do really well, while a growing number of Americans barely get by, or we can re-store an economy where everyone gets a fair shot, and everyone does their fair share, and everyone plays by the same set of rules.’

“My personal concern is that too many people do not understand the importance of fairness and even more of them do not believe in the concept.

“Our President did ask us to use our imagination to consider the recent achievements of the American Armed Forces: They’re not consumed with personal ambition. They do not observe the differences. They focus on the mission at hand. They work together. Our President then asked, ‘Imagine what we could accomplish, which we followed their example.’”

James Ransom said, “Yes, I did see the President’s State of the Union Address and in my opinion, it was short, tall and firm like the Rock of Gibraltar, which is one of the pillars of Hercules.

“He spoke with strength and confidence. There was no ambiguity in the tone and tenor of his message. He communicated his vision with truth to power. His vision was clear and unwavering. He spoke with dignity, finesse and respect, but he was unapologetic about his intentions to accomplish goals and outcomes to improve the quality of life for all.”

“He reminded us all about what he inherited from the 43rd President and his accomplishments and then he set forth his vision of an America where everyone enjoys a level playing field for all, where everyone gets a fair shot, where the same rules apply to everyone, or at least stop playing by the same set of rules for everyone who choose to remain on American soil.

“His performance to date shows that he is a leader by example, which he proved by winning the election again last night. He stood up, now we need to stand up and vote for him again!”

Elder Charles Davis said, “The President was brilliant. I’m just so glad that he has a sense of morality, that he is compassionate for people who are not on the same economic level he is, and that he is a family man. As the first Black to serve as President of the United States, he is someone worthy of being emulated by our young people.

“I think that all candidates should campaign against President Obama and run on a method to improve the country and the concerns of the people.”

Coat Drive To Benefit Residents

BY GWEN HAYES
Sentinel Editor

A program to involve the residents of Tampa Park Apartments, Inc. teaches those who participate a variety of life skills. "Become A Better You" is more than 5 years old. The program was organized to allow the residents to voice their concerns with other residents in a relaxed atmosphere. The residents have received numerous services from a variety of individuals, and they've had the opportunity to attend several functions.

One of the activities for the group is a coat drive. The 2nd Annual Coat Drive will take place on Tuesday, February 7, 2012, 5 p.m. This year's theme is "Team Up To Warm Up." Coats will be collected through February 3rd at the Tampa Park Apartments Office, 1417 Tampa Park Plaza (Scott and Nebraska). Last year, more than 200 coats were distributed to the residents.

"The residents don't just get the coats, they have to pay at least $1," says Yolanda Anthony, Property Manager and Director of the Become A Better You Program. "In order to become self-sufficient, the residents have to earn their way. However, that money goes right back to them when we go to baseball games, the theatre and other events," she explained.

The Coat Drive was begun to help residents during the cold months who may not have the proper clothing for the weather. "We realize these are tough times for a lot of people and we want to help in any way we can," she stated.

Residents and those from the community may drop off clean, usable coats for all ages between the hours of 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Donations can be used as a tax write-off.

Apartment Complex Undergoes Transformation

BY LEON B. CREWS
Sentinel Staff Writer

The area of Tampa beginning at Fowler Avenue and stretching north to Bearss Avenue contains more apartment complexes than anywhere else in the city. Some of the complexes are well kept, while others are either rundown, or abandoned.

One group of apartments formerly known as the Oaks Apartments and Pines 1, are now Oak Gardens.

The apartments, just off Fowler Avenue on 15th Street and 14th Street, are now fully renovated two bedroom units.

The complexes feature three buildings, each one painted its own color. When you include great, new landscaping, you have something that everyone can be proud to call home.

But, Jeremy Griffin said that's only half the package. Griffin, who manages the complexes, said if you are one of those people who have moved to get away from the nonsense, only to find you haven't, you need to come by and see the changes at Oak Gardens.

"If you are tired of moving, Oak Gardens is the place for you to come to. If you are tired of the noise, drugs, and all the drama, Oak Gardens will give you that peace and safety you thought didn't exist in the University area."

In each apartment, you will find new tile, appliances, paint, and on the outside you will find new exterior lighting, landscaping, and new air conditioning units.

The apartments are on the bus line, and a short walking distance from Fowler Avenue. Washer and dryer hookups are located in the storage room in the back of each apartment, and the perimeter is fenced in with security cameras on the grounds.

"Any attempt to create quiet and safe communities is a challenge these days," said Griffin. "But, from being completely honest at the first customer contact, the goals of Oak Gardens are known from the start. Those who value quiet, safe and respectful properties are thrilled. Those that think it might not be a good match, quickly decide to try somewhere else."

Griffin said in these economic times, it is good to see people who still have a positive, hopeful view of Tampa. "Hope and optimism is what has gotten us all through tough times in the past, and will surely be the key to moving the area forward in the future."
Occupy Tampa Group Held
March, Rally In Old West Tampa

BY LEON B. CREWS
Sentinel Staff Writer

On Saturday, January 21st, representatives from Occupy Tampa met with representatives of the Old West Tampa community for a rally and march.

The rally and march were held in an effort to let the residents of West Tampa know what Occupy Tampa was all about, and what role they were playing in solving the problems in that community.

Occupy Tampa representative, Shawn Samuels, said he thought the rally and march went well. "I wish more people from the community would have come out and joined us. Overall, I think the rally, and ones planned for the future, will help make the community aware of the laws that will affect them in the future, and what they can do to speak out against or for the laws."

It's also important that the people of Old West Tampa know that although we are there as an anti-political group, we are also concerned about what's happening in their community, and we are willing to do whatever we can to bring justice to the people."

City Councilman Frank Reddick said he met with the representatives and they talked about their concerns. "I told them who I was and made my office available to them whenever they need help."

West Tampa Development Manager, Michael Randolph, said he was happy that the event brought two groups together so they could dialogue. "I was disappointed over the lack of media coverage for the event. I'm looking forward to the next march in February. I do think we got the attention of the people, and they know we're trying to make things better for them."

"We both reached out to each other, and identified what direction both organizations need to go. I got the opportunity to talk to a lot of people with Occupy Tampa, and got several different perspectives. I was happy Rev. McKenzie was at the meeting."

Randolph said he thinks there needs to be a clear delegation of responsibilities on who is to do what, because there is no clear leader with the group.

Dwight Bolden, who was one of the first to open a tent and let us sing praise and worship our Holy Father Together. (Note: This sentence appears to be a misprint and is not coherent.)

"It seems 2012 has become the new 1960s fight for civil rights. I was happy that the march consisted of people of all colors and religious sects. We're all seeking the same things."

Rev. Charles McKenzie, Jr., who is a state representative of the Rainbow Coalition, said he was pleased to see people from other organizations at the rally. "I think everything went well. The level of energy is refreshing that these young people are expressing. This is the same energy the young people displayed during the sit-ins and other demonstrations of the 1960s."

"I do feel progress was made in connecting them with the people of Old West Tampa. I think the bonding affect is that they are dealing with some of the same problems people in the community are dealing with. We've learned well how to tolerate and accepting of people."

Rev. McKenzie said he would like to see Occupy Tampa continue to integrate themselves with the people in Old West Tampa, and continue to strive for the ideals and changes that will benefit everyone.

Lee Roy Selmon Banking Center Opens for Business

BY IRIS B. HOLTON
Sentinel City Editor

On Thursday afternoon, the ribbon-cutting and dedication ceremony of a new branch of Fifth Third Bank took place. The facility is named in honor of Mr. Lee Roy Selmon, a founding board member and outstanding athlete. Mr. Selmon died on September 4, 2011, after suffering a massive stroke at the age of 56.

The dedication ceremony for the Lee Roy Selmon Banking Center, 2206 E. Fowler Avenue, took place at 5:30 p.m. Mr. Selmon’s wife, Mrs. Claybra Selmon, Brian Lamb, President of Fifth Third Bank, Tampa Bay, and Dr. Judy Genshaft, President of the University of South Florida, were among those in attendance.

After retiring from professional football, Mr. Selmon remained in Tampa, where he worked in the banking industry, becoming a founding board member of Fifth Third Bank. He became active in several charities and athletic programs in the area.

In 1993, he was chosen as the Assistant Athletic Director at the University of South Florida. He was promoted to the position of Athletic Director at the university in 2001.

It was under his direction and guidance that the university launched its football program. Health issues forced him to step down in 2004.

Since establishing himself in Tampa, a highway, the Lee Roy Selmon Crosstown Expressway bears his name and he established a chain of restaurants that bear his name as well.

Mr. Selmon was the first round draft pick in the NFL draft in 1976 by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and wore jersey #55. Selmon’s entire career was as a Buccaneer. He retired 9 years later. The Bucs also drafted his brother, Dewey, the same year.

Selmon was chosen “Rookie of the Year” and MVP his first year. He was chosen to play in the Pro Bowl six consecutive years and in 1979, Selmon was named the “NFL Defensive Player of the Year.”

He retired in 1984, after injuring his back. Two years later, the Bucs franchise retired his number.

Some of his other honors include induction into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1988; the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1995; and being named to the Sports Illustrated NCAA Football All-Century Team in 1999. He was also the first player inducted into the Tampa Bay Buccaneers Ring of Honor in November 2009.

Mayor Dedicates Trail Honoring Community Activist

BY IRIS B. HOLTON
Sentinel City Editor

Earlier this month, members of the Tampa City Council voted unanimously to rename a walking trail in honor of a community activist. The dedication ceremony formally naming the trail in honor of Mrs. Ruth Fleming, took place on Thursday evening.

The area, which now bears the name of “Ruth J. Fleming Trail,” is one-third of a mile in length. It features fitness equipment such as a warm-up station, rowing machine, leg stretch, and push-up bars. The park is also the home of the Gwendolyn M. Miller Community Center. An After-School Activity Program is included among its activities geared toward youth and adults who utilize the facility.

Mayor Bob Buckhorn said, “The Woodlawn Terrace Park exists in part because of Ruth Fleming’s work, so it seems only fitting that the City of Tampa cement her legacy by renaming this trail in her honor. She has never stopped advocating on behalf of her Woodlawn Terrace neighborhood.”

Mrs. Fleming is credited with re-organizing the Woodlawn Terrace Neighborhood Watch and the entire community work closely with the Tampa Police Department, helping to combat crime, and we stress cleanliness and safety,” she said.

Mrs. Fleming was appointed to the Citizen’s Advisory Committee by Commissioner Les Miller, Jr.

Mrs. Fleming retired from the Suncoast Schools Federal Credit Union in December 2008. She retired as a Senior Loan Officer and Fair Housing Specialist who dedicated 33 years to the company.

A native of Havana, Mrs. Fleming has lived her adult life in Tampa. She and Levi Fleming, Jr., her husband of 45 years, are the parents of one daughter, Valerie Fleming.

Ceremony To Honor Blake Hoop Stars, Past And Present

Varsity Basketball Team

Adams said this will be Davis’ last year as head coach at Blake, and he wanted to make sure he is honored while he’s still alive.

“We will be dedicating banners honoring Winston, the 1966 team, and other teams going back as far as Don Thompson.

“Before the accomplishments of last year’s team, the 1966 team was the last one to make it to the final four.”

Adams said they want to start building a history of the great accomplishments of Blake’s athletes, both past and present.

“We feel not only should Winston be honored for what last year’s team did, but for enduring the discomfort and pain of battling a brain tumor. He continued to coach the team throughout this ordeal, and our booster club named him ‘Man Of The Year,’ and dedicated this season to him.”

Adams said a monument will be erected in the gymnasium with the names of all of the players on the girls and boys basketball teams. Members of the 1966 team will be at the game on February 1st for the unveiling of the banner.

Bobby Wilds, a member of the 1966 team, said it was an honor just being on that team.

“We were more than a basketball team, we were a family, because we all knew each other from childhood. For four years, I played with David Wright and Willie Sampson.

“We did everything together. We lived at each other’s house, our parents were close, and we were as close as real brothers. We’re still close today, and we get together every chance we can.”

Wilds was co-captain of the basketball team, and captain of the football team. He recalls the team finishing 32-3 his senior year, and losing only 2 football games in 4 years.

Another member of the 1966 team, Arnold "Daddy Bow" Watson, said they were raised together as children, so it was natural for them to be close.

“We knew what each other was capable of on the court and on the football field. We all worked hard, and were very proud.

“We still meet and talk, and nothing has changed over the years. We enjoy poking fun at each other and basically we just pick up where we left off in high school.”

The 1966 basketball team was coached by the late James "Big Jim" Williams. The Junior Varsity team was coached by Randolph Kinsey.

The banners were designed by photographer, Toby Scott.

Former Blake Student To Perform At School

By Leon B. Crews

Deejay Young, a 2008 graduate of Howard W. Blake High School, credits his success as an entertainer to all the instructors at his alma mater, and the successful musicians and entertainers who came before him.

On February 8th, Young will be returning to Blake to put on a concert in the school’s theater. The show will begin at 7:30 p.m. Since graduation, Young attended Florida A&M University for two years. He decided to take a step back, return to Tampa, and in 2010, he auditioned for a show at Disney World called "Disney Channel Rocks."

"I found out a day in advance about the audition, and without studying, I got the role. I started singing with a group called "City Groove," and just growing as an artist and performer in Orlando."

Young said now he feels it’s time for him to come home and share his success with the people closest to him.

"I think it’s going to be a great show. I consider myself a singer and dancer, so I will be entertaining the audience the best I can."

Young said another Blake graduate, Marcus, will be performing the next night at the same time. Marcus is a dancer/choreographer, and is also doing a show at Disney World.

Whitney Houston is destitute and "broke as a joke," according reports. A popular celebrity gossip site posted a story that the Grammy Award winning singer has hit rock bottom and lost her fortune.

Whitney, 48, reportedly has blown through an enormous amount of cash that she accumulated from decades of superstardom.

The single mom has allegedly been so strapped for cash that she called someone to asked for $300, according to a source.

In August 2001, the “I Will Always Love You” singer signed a six album record deal with Arista/BMG for $100 million, which was the biggest record deal in music history at the time.

Houston just finished filming Sparkle, her first film since 1996’s The Preacher’s Wife. She stars alongside Jordan Sparks in the modern remake of the 1976 classic film.

Lee Premieres 'Red Hook Summer'

The premiere of Spike Lee's latest film, Red Hook Summer was met with mixed reviews from audiences at the Sundance Film Festival, prompting Lee to burst into a tirade.

The film is billed as a coming-of-age story of a teenage boy who spends the summer in Brooklyn's Red Hook projects with his preacher grandfather.

Spike Lee called it the latest in his "chronicles" of his childhood neighborhood. Red Hook Summer features a return of the iconic character "Mookie," originally played by Lee in 1989's Do the Right Thing. Lee detailed his struggle with studies to produce a sequel to his highest-grossing movie, Inside Man and acknowledged the presence of several cast members from the recently-released, predominantly-black Red Tails.

Nick Cannon Defends His Wife

Nick Cannon tweeted defending his wife, Mariah Carey, from comments made by Chelsea Handler during her interview with Howard Stern.

"Everyone's been talking about Handler opening up about her relationship with 50 Cent on Howard Stern, but Cannon wasn't hearing none of that. "Anyone who's married to Carey I'm sure doesn't have a great sense of humor. She's ridiculous. What is her game plan? What kind of person operates like that? She's worse than like Elizabeth Taylor. She's just so ridiculous with her body. You see her one day and she's 50 pounds heavier or light...there's nothing real about her and her Hello Kitty or whatever."

Sean Kingston Still Traumatized

You may recall Sean Kingston's horrific jet ski accident last May which left him in the ICU for over 10 days. The 21-year-old singer is so traumatized by the event, that he has vacated his Star Island mansion in Miami and moved to Beverly Hills.

Kingston admitted that he could hear the waves from his home and it would give him nightmares of that awful day.

Tracy Morgan Released From Hospital

Funny man Tracy Morgan was released from a Utah hospital, after he fell unconscious at the Sundance Film Festival following the Creative Coalition Spotlight Awards dinner, where he accepted an award.

The "30 Rock" star was immediately rushed to a Park City medical facility, where he was diagnosed with altitude sickness which is also referred to as mountain sickness.

Park City, Utah, stands at an elevation of 7,000 feet, and illness is brought on by a combination of reduced air pressure and lower oxygen levels at high altitudes.

In many cases, the symptoms of altitude sickness can be mild, but if someone has a compromised immune system, the effects can be life-threatening.

In Morgan's case, his diabetes could have led to complications, but apparently, he was treated quickly and without hesitation.

Kelly Met With Tampa But Decides To Stay At Oregon

Oregon head coach Chip Kelly announced Monday that he's remaining with the Ducks, though he says he was flattered by the interest shown in him by the NFL's Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The Bucs are searching for a new head coach after firing Raheem Morris after finishing last in the NFC South.

Oregon athletic director Rob Mullens said Oregon granted Tampa Bay permission to talk to Kelly.

Woods Hoping To Resume Good Play In Abu Dhabi

Tiger Woods says he's starting a season healthy for the first time in at least eight years. "It's been quite a few years since I've been physically fit," Woods said on Tuesday in his first appearance at the Abu Dhabi Championship. "So I'm looking forward to getting out there and giving it a full season, which I haven't done in a while."

Woods' confidence got a boost when he ended 2011 by winning his Chevron World Challenge in December for his first title in more than two years. "I'm looking forward to this year," Woods said. "That's something that I have to say, because I was able to prepare and get fit enough to prepare last year and towards the end of the year. I demonstrated to myself what I can do with implementing what (coach Sean Foley) wants me to do on the golf swing."

Ike Hilliard Joins Redskins

Ike Hilliard is the new receivers coach for the Washington Redskins. The Redskins also announced Monday that Bob Slowik will move to linebackers coach after working with the secondary for the last two seasons.

Hilliard played 12 seasons in the NFL and spent this season as an assistant receivers coach for the Miami Dolphins. He replaces Keenan McCardell, who was dismissed earlier this month.

Akers: Stop Hateful Remarks Aimed At Williams

Kyle Williams is ignoring the barrage of hateful, hurtful, even threatening comments he has received via social media in the aftermath of his ill-timed fumble that cost the San Francisco 49ers the NFC championship game against New England.

Williams said Monday he takes full responsibility for his fumble on a punt return in overtime of a 20-17 loss to the Giants on Sunday night that set up Lawrence Tynes' winning field goal, calling the moment "painful."

"I really didn't pay attention to Twitter. All the feedback I needed was family and friends, the guys in the locker room," Williams said. Instantly, Williams was made a villain on the Internet.

Serena Crashes Out Of Aussie Open

The Australian Open women's draw was thrown wide open Monday after Russia's Ekaterina Makarova shocked Serena Williams in the fourth round, as Wimbledon champion Petra Kvitova won in straight sets.

Makarova, the world number 56, reached a grand slam quarter-final for the first time when she stunned Williams 6-2, 6-3 and will now face former champion Maria Sharapova, who battled back from a set down to progress.

But a post from the first point it was obvious that Williams, who suffered an ankle injury this month in Brisbane, was not her usual self as mistakes came thick and fast from her racquet, 37 in all.

The 30-year-old sent down seven double-faults as she was broken five times, ending a 17-match unbeaten streak at Melbourne Park stretching back to 2009.
Back during the days when Rogers Park Golf Course was treated like the stepchild of the Tampa Sports Authority, the course had a guardian angel on the authority. That person was the late, C. Blythe Andrews, Jr. The man was a fighter for the welfare of Rogers Park Golf Course. Many golf courses have a stretch of holes that has a name. Holes 13, 14 and 15 are the stretch of holes that should be named after Mr. Andrews. Water and bushes make all three of these holes challenging. It would be a fitting and well-deserved honor. In the alternative, the clubhouse can be named after the man. Let us remember that Mr. Andrews did a lot for the good of the golf course as a member of the Sports Authority.

Referees Deciding Too Many Games
Hillsborough County has some of the most impotent basketball officials in the State of Florida. Some of these basketball want-to-be referees are so bad that they are actually deciding which team will win the game. It is a realistic fact that some officials don’t know the difference between a charge or a block. A charge occurs when a player with the ball runs over a defensive player. A block occurs when a defensive player impedes the progress of the player with the ball by moving to block the player’s path. So many of these officials don’t know when a player travels with the ball. Traveling is moving both feet while possessing the ball without dribbling. They add to this by anticipating a foul that never occurs. Finally, so many officials are out of shape and unable to keep up with the fast pace of a basketball game.

They are in many cases, deciding the winner.

Coach Davis Has Paid His Dues
Howard W. Blake head basketball coach, Winston Davis has paid his dues and he needs to give serious consideration to retiring. The veteran head coach has been coaching for more than 20 years. He has had a very rewarding career. As of late, the personable coach has not been in the best of health. Retiring would ease the stress on him and give him more time to concentrate on regaining his health. Coach Davis walks away, his fans will understand and support him.

Coach Davis has paid his dues. At this stage, it is better for him to watch a game than to coach one.

Prince Fielder And Detroit Tigers Agree To 9-Year, $214 Million Deal
DETROIT — Free agent first baseman Prince Fielder and the Detroit Tigers agreed Tuesday on a nine-year, $214 million contract that fills the AL Central champions’ need for a power hitter, a person familiar with the deal said. Detroit boldly stepped up in the Fielder sweepstakes after the recent knee injury to star Victor Martinez. A week ago, the Tigers announced that the productive designated hitter could miss the entire season after tearing his left ACL. The Tigers won their division by 15 games before losing in the AL championship series to Texas. Adding Fielder gives the Tigers two of the game’s premier sluggers, pairing him with Miguel Cabrera.

Hockey Player Rejects Invitation To White House
Boston Bruins goaltender Tim Thomas denied an invitation to visit the White House Monday with his team because of his political opposition to the president’s policies.

U.S. presidents traditionally receive championship sports teams at the White House. The team is congratulated and the president is presented with a jersey making him an honorary member of the winning squad. The Boston Bruins were the winners of the 2011 Stanley Cup. The rest of the team did appear at the White House without Thomas.

Trial Underway For Man Accused Of Setting Wife Afire

On Monday, the attempted murder trial of a man accused of setting his wife and name afire began.

Ms. Audrey Mabry, took the stand Tuesday, and told her story about how her then husband, Christopher Peter Hanney, 46, threw a flammable liquid on her and set her afire. She claimed he held the butcher knife and made no mention of a masked man.

During her testimony, Ms. Mabry said her husband doused her with gasoline and threw a candle at her setting her afire. She was able to break free. He also said that at some point, the masked man disappeared, and he attempted to save his wife by smothering the flames with a blanket.

Hanney further stated that his wife was struck with the hammer as he attempted to hit the man wearing the red devil mask.

Hanney said he was kicking his feet after being tied up by the pair, and his foot hit her, setting her ablaze. He was able to break free. He also said that at some point, the masked man disappeared, and he attempted to save his wife by smothering the flames with a blanket.

The defense completed their portion of the trial on Wednesday and the prosecutors called rebuttal witnesses Thursday morning.

Hanney has been in custody at the Hillsborough County Jail for the past 797 days. He was arrested November 18, 2009, and charged with the attempted first-degree murder and first-degree arson.

According to the Hillsborough County Sheriff's Office, on November 17, 2009, at approximately 3:23 in the afternoon, Hanney confronted his estranged wife at their Apollo Beach home.

She told police, Hanney threw a flammable liquid on Ms. Mabry, struck her in the head with a hammer, and ignited the liquid.

Ms. Mabry ran to a neighbor's house with her clothing extinguished the fire and called for help. Ms. Mabry was burned over 80% of her body.

Hanney also attempted suicide, and sent text messages to relatives, the prosecutors said.

Both Ms. Mabry and Ms. Mabry were admitted to local hospitals. She was listed in critical condition. He was released from the hospital on November 18th, and has remained in jail since his arrest.

Squad members saw two men drinking in a car parked near Hollywood Nights, and as they approached the vehicle, they reported smelling marijuana.

Squad members detained the two men, and they were searched. One of the men, Kolevis Butler, 29, was found to be in possession of 52 grams of powder and rock cocaine (32 bags). He also had 10 grams of marijuana (11 bags).

A second man, Davonta Whitten, 37, was found to be in possession of a half gram of powder cocaine and a scale.

Butler was charged with trafficking in cocaine, possession of marijuana, possession of marijuana with intent to deliver, and resisting arrest without violence. He was also on probation until 2018 for delivery of cocaine.

Whitten was charged with possession of cocaine and possession of paraphernalia.

Single Mother Of 4 Completes Third Book

BY LEON B. CREWS
Sentinel Staff Writer

When Chambee Smith was a student at Brandon High School, she took a creative writing class, and submitted a poem to her instructor.

"She read the poem, called me up, and thoroughly questioned me about where the poem came from. She couldn't believe I wrote it. "That sparked my interest to write more, and I started writing short stories." That begins to result in Ms. Smith writing three books, "Bending Bridges, A Room Full of Gold, and The Unsweetened Truth."

Ms. Smith explained that although her first two books did quite well, she would like to market her own product.

"I worked on promoting my own books, and making sure there were some people who knew about them. It was important for me to focus on my writing and my own book."

"Sometimes, I question myself as to where some of the material comes from. "I have been approached by a lot of people with ideas about writing different things, and I have been working on a fictional book about the life story of a woman known as Mother Chester. It will be a kind of autobiography."

Ms. Smith said the single mother of four children has helped to keep her focused and grounded.

"I know what I'm doing now is for the future of my children, and I'm also working as an administrative assistant. The bills still have to be paid, and I don't have the level of security with my writing where I can afford to stop working."

"I grew up in Seffner, I was very introverted, and my mother had no idea I had such creative ideas. She read my books, and loves all three books, especially the second one."

Ms. Smith said she describes herself as a thinker, and a lot of things are logged into her memory to be used later.

"I learned the real work is in promoting your book, and making sure people know who you are, and what inspires you to write. "Growing up in Seffner, I was very introverted, and my mother had no idea I had such creative ideas. She read my books, and loves all three books, especially the second one."

Ms. Smith said the material for her books come from sources, some from people she knows and others from her own personal experiences.

"I have been approached by a lot of people with ideas about writing different things, and I have been working on a fictional book about the life story of a woman known as Mother Chester. It will be a kind of autobiography."

Ms. Smith said being the single mother of four children has helped to keep her focused and grounded.

"I know what I'm doing now is for the future of my children. I'm also working as an administrative assistant, because the bills still have to be paid, and I haven't reached the level of security with my writing where I can afford to stop working."

"I started as a dishwasher," she says. "I knew if I was going to stay in this line of work I wanted to move up to the best position." It seems determination has always been a trademark of Donaldson's character traits. He grew up in Ponce De Leon public housing and refused to let what he calls an environment of "drugs and gangs" get the best of him. "I wasn't going to take that path. I didn't grow up with a father, but I had my mother and grandmother, and they were very instrumental in my life."

Those who know him say he's a hard worker and it seems hard work has definitely gotten him noticed. "Shula's gives me the chance to see big time people. They know me by name; Derrick Jeter, Warren Sapp. I've met a lot of famous people, but I most enjoy taking care of our guests and making sure they are getting their needs met."

Donaldson says he's passionate about his job and it's that passion that keeps a smile on his face and brings a smile to many others.

TOP DRIVER - HOUSEHOLD GOODS 2010-2011

“Born in Bainbridge, Georgia — the son of a share­cropper — Sid remem­bers watching the trucks pass by as he worked the fields, and some­day wanting to drive one of those trucks.

He started driving at the age of 13 — in the farm fields, of course! He was the middle child of a family of nine — and he was the shortest.

So, when he drove — and needed to put his foot on the clutch — he actually couldn’t see over the dash­board! Not only that, but this was back in the day before power steering, so keeping a truck on the road required a lot of strength.

He moved to Florida at age 19, and took a variety of jobs.

He worked for a crating com­pany, and in a steel mill, but then a gentleman by the name of Bob Vetzel hired his as a local salaried driver.

Because of Sid’s strong work ethic, Mr. Vetzel as­sisted him in buying a tractor — and he spent the next 14 years working for him.

Later, he went over to Fogarty Van Lines where he became ac­quainted with us, and eventually came to find a home here in the Direct Lease Fleet.

Sid is a firm believer in ad­hering to rules and regulations — at Fogarty he attended a Na­tional Van Lines driver training class and learned that if you follow the rules the van line will stand behind you — and he believes that to this day.

He says you know you are al­ways protected when you do it right! He was taught that his word is his bond, and we have certainly found that to be so.”

“What you do in secret, God will reward you openly.”

Psalm 32:10

Jesus Is Love! Jesus Is Liberty!
Song From Deliverance

Many people write songs about an experience or to express a feeling regarding some event in life. Some songs will be songs of cheer and some will be songs of sorrow. No matter what life brings, there can be a song. Some song acknowledges the awesomeness of God (vs. 1). When you write the song of your life it must be mentioned that God is great and awesome. God is to be exalted above everyone! They tell of the deliverance of God and state that they will praise Him (vs. 2). We are saved and delivered because of the work of God. You are where you are because God looked down on you and came to bring you out of what had you in bondage. That is reason enough to praise God. Their song tells of the actions God performed to deliver them (vs. 3-5). God had to fight for you for you to be delivered. The enemy of your life did not want to let you go, but God fought for you. They sing that not only did God deliver them from the enemy but He also destroyed the enemy. God will destroy your enemy. Destruction may not be that your enemies die, but God makes it so that they will not or cannot cause problems for you in your life. The reason you are not dealing with some of the enemies of your past is because God is keeping them from you. He has taken away their access to you. That is reason to praise Him! Their journey took them through a deserted place where they could not find any water (vs. 22). Sometimes the journey or path God takes you on will lead you to a deserted place. There will be times in your life when you can’t find anything to satisfy your thirst. To deliver you from the things you want you may have to go through a time of drought. When they did find water they could not drink it because it was bitter (vs. 23). In your life you may come to a place when stuff is bitter. After a drought in your life and you begin to live again things may taste bitter. It may be difficult for you to trust again because it is bitter. After having heartbreak, loving someone may be bitter. Just as for the Israelites, God is able to take that which is bitter and make it sweet (vs. 25). Too often people want to abandon what they have or throw something away because of how it tastes. When you know that you have a God who is able to fight for you and deliver you, then you must also believe that He is able to turn your bitterness to sweetness. God has proven Himself to His people time after time. He makes a covenant or establishes a decree with them to test them (vs. 26). God wants His people to listen to His voice and follow His commands. If you follow His commands and obey His voice, He will promise not to do any of the things He did to your enemy to you.

Golf Program Now Offered In Area Schools

The First Tee of Tampa Bay Golf Program has been underway for more than 5 years, an effort has been underway to get the First Tee of Tampa Bay Golf Program integrated into the public school system.

First Tee Of Tampa Bay Executive Director, Ian Baxter, said the cost of the program was a hurdle in getting that done, but through fundraisers, grants, the Florida State Golf Association, and donations, the program is now available in 76 Hillsborough County Elementary Schools, and at Franklin and Ferrell Middle Magnet Schools.

“We are reaching out to more than 40,000 kids in the Hillsborough County public school system to introduce golf as part of the physical education program,” said Baxter.

The physical education teachers will be trained on how to teach the students the basics of golf, and the kids who show a real interest are given information they need to further their instruction at the Rogers Park Golf Course, or a course in their zip code area.

Baxter said, they have been able to provide each school $3,500 to help with the instruction of the kids, plus the cost of training the teachers.

“The schools have been very receptive to our efforts, and we’ve been able to keep the cost of the classes at a very low price. Kids living in the 33602, 33603, 33604, 33605, 33610, and 33612 zip code areas will be offered a very low rate per class for a seven-week session.”

Baxter said it’s a challenge introducing a new sport into a school system, but for the kids who have never been exposed to golf, the school system is the best way to expose them to it, especially to children 5 years old.

“That’s the best age group to get interested and maintain that interest. We also teach them life skills, and what role it plays in all sports, not just golf.”

Baxter said the students don’t have to meet any specific academic standard, but they do reward the kids with A and B grades.

“We want to make sure the kids have an opportunity to at least try the sport. This is a year-long program that will be available whether they are in school or out for the summer.”

To find out more about this program, call (813) 238-7320.

The First Tee of Tampa Bay is a part of the Tampa YMCA Program.

A seismic shift in the Platonic immediately to resolve an thousands of convictions and the case directly to the favor of the statute then nutlic­ting will change.

the Florida Supreme Court heard before the State of Florida\'s top court in December. A ruling is expect­ed soon.

In September of 2011, the Second District Court of Appeal issued an order asking the Florida Supreme Court immediately to resolve an issue that has sprung up in courtrooms statewide in recent months: whether Florida\'s Drug Abuse Prevention and Control law violates the due process clause of the U.S. Constitution\'s 14th Amendment. Argument was heard before the State of Florida\'s top court in December. A ruling is expected soon. If the Supreme Court of the States of Florida rules in favor of the statute then nothing will change. If it strikes it down, it will amount to earth-shaking change in the law. A seismic shift in the platonic plates of criminal law. Such a ruling would likely overturn thousands of convictions and exonerate hundreds if not thousands of people recently charged with drug crimes. Over the last three decades only about a dozen times has an appellate court deemed an issue so important that it sent the case directly to the Supreme Court of the State of Florida and requested an immediate ruling.

The Supreme Court of Florida has determined this was one of those times: "Until this important constitutional question is resolved by the Florida Supreme Court, prosecutions for drug offenses will be subject to great uncertainty throughout Florida." The appellate court opinion continued to read: "It will be difficult to reach a final resolution in many of these cases until the issue is resolved."

Under the statute, which was created by the Florida Legislature in 2002, defendants can be convicted of a felony merely by possessing an illegal drug, regardless of what they meant to do with it or if they even knew what they had was illegal. At least three Florida judges— one in federal court in the Orlando Division and two at the circuit level in Miami and Bradenton— recently ruled that the law was invalid. In almost every case brought before circuit courts, prosecutors have argued that the statute is valid because two district courts of appeal, including the Second District Court of Appeal, previously determined that the law is constitutional.

Until a higher court rules in opposition lower courts must stay the legal course. This is called legally binding precedent.

Regardless of how the Supreme Court of Florida rules one can expect the issue will not be settled. This matter will eventually make its way to the Supreme Court of the United States of America.

A former Miami prosecutor in the 1990\'s, Attorney Mark J. O\'Brien is now a federal and state criminal defense attorney located in Tampa, Florida. Mr. O\'Brien handles criminal trial and criminal appellate and post-conviction matters in all federal and state courts in Florida and throughout the United States. He can be reached at O\'Brien Hatfield, PA, Bayshore Center, 514 West Bay Street, Suite 330, Tampa, Florida 33606, via his direct phone line at (813) 228-6989, via email at mj@markjobrien.com or on the internet at www.markjobrien.com.

Don\'t feel bad; even yours truly gets infected time to time. The first line of defense is to update your virus protection and run a full scan of your computer. If that does not work or your virus protection has been disabled, a very capable "do it yourself" tool is called MalWareBytes (www.malwarebytes.org). It is a free malware (viruses included) eradication tool that can be run in all versions of Windows to eliminate viruses.

After that, if you still have a problem you\'ll probably need to seek professional help. If you contact me I\'ll be willing to provide you with some suggestions, but will only warn you to be careful in choosing who will work on your computer, especially if choosing one of the office supply stores.

In some cases it is easier and quicker for a vendor to reinstall your computer rather than to eradicate the virus. In such cases, you will lose your personal files and find that all of your programs and favorites will have been removed when your computer is returned.

Avocados... Not Just For Guacamole

Did you know that just 1/2 of a medium avocado adds nearly 20 beneficial vitamins, minerals and nutrients to your diet? And, avocados are loaded with antioxidants.

By adding avocados to your salads, soups or dip, they act as a nutrient booster that helps the body to absorb more fat-soluble nutrients. Avocados are also full of beta-sitosterol which helps absorb cholesterol in your intestines, lowering the level in your bloodstream and reducing your risk of heart disease.

Avocados are full of potassium, a mineral that helps keep all the other minerals in balance and is vital for lowering blood pressure. Avocados are also food for your skin and hair. Make a mask using a mashed avocado, 2 tsp of olive oil and 1 tablespoon of plain yogurt. Apply to your face and let set for 20 minutes, then rinse.

You can also mash an avocado and massage it into your wet hair for 5 minutes. Leave in for 10 more minutes, then rinse. It will add shine and luster to your dull hair.

De-Stress In 60 Minutes Or Less!

Here are 5 of the top ways to give yourself a quick dose of peace of mind.

1. Go for a walk. Want a break from the office? Does your house feel like an insane asylum? Slip out the door and let your feet take you somewhere. Not only will walking give you the opportunity to clear your head and take a break from that hectic situation, but it's great aerobic exercise, too.

2. Talk to a friend. We all have someone whose voice alone perks us up. Give them a buzz, even for a few minutes. Whether with a joke or a funny story, or just by listening, they will likely put a smile on your face and calm you down. Besides, what are friends for?

3. Write in a journal. Expressing your feelings could be the best way to deal with stress. Keeping a journal is a way to capture those feelings at any moment. You don't have to worry about what others think or say, just let your pen do the work. By the time you're done, those feelings will be on their way out of your system.

4. Sweat it out. Have some pent up frustrations? There's no better way to get rid of them than by exercising. Pop in a workout tape, hop on your bike or grab your swim cap. You'll be too busy working up a sweat to worry about what's stressing you out. Picture the stress leaving your body through your pores.

5. Take a hot bath. A hot bath will initially give your body a kick, which in turn will give your mind a kick too – and then it'll slow both down. Add bubbles and a few candles and you have the ultimate soothing atmosphere.

Pain At Work: 5 Tips To Deal With Your Day

Whether it’s an aching neck, sore feet, or simply overall discomfort, if you’ve had to work through pain on the job, you know how challenging it can be.

The next time pain strikes on a workday, try these techniques:

1. Practice Good Posture. A great number of chronic pain problems are caused by people slouching or sitting improperly in a chair.

2. Move During Your Breaks. Taking a break every couple of hours or as needed is critical to avoid chronic pain while working.

3. Get Help for Heavy Lifting. One of the most common workplace injuries comes from lifting objects that are too heavy for you, especially when you are already living with pain.

Learn to lift properly to protect your back. “Also, push, do not pull, when moving heavy objects across the floor.

4. Wear Comfortable Shoes. Make sure your shoes fully support your feet and offer plenty of room for your toes. To save yourself pain, you may need to save the high heels for social occasions.

If you stand or walk for long periods each day, be sure to wear flat, comfortable shoes with good arch support.

5. Take Care Of Your Body. Good health habits shouldn’t just be common practice at the workplace. Coping with pain, especially chronic pain, often requires a round-the-clock effort. Taking care of your overall health and physical condition is a good first line of defense in preventing pain and a must in managing it.

Maintain a healthy weight, sticking with a light aerobic exercise and strength training program, and eating a healthy diet are essential.

What's in your Game Day playbook?

Some big with the bold flavors everyone loves.

From Tonia Turner

Not everyone can score tickets to the big game next weekend (Feb. 5), but anyone can throw a big game bash to watch it with friends and family.

This menu will help you avoid making rookie party planning mistakes and help you score points at your big game bash.

Make A Party Playbook

- Crunch the numbers: Count on guests each eating between 8 to 12 servings of appetizers over a 2-hour period. Plan on 2 nonalcoholic drinks per guest during the first hour, and 1 for each hour after that. Buy about a pound of ice per guest for drinks.
- Tackle the food prep early: Make as much of the food ahead of time as you can. Peel, chop and prep veggie trays a day or two in advance. Dips and desserts can be made the day before, too.

Pre-Game Trail Mix

1 bag Pistachios (shell on)
4 cups each bite size, mini-chex cereal, rice sticks and pretzels
2 tablespoons orange juice
1-1/2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1/2 cup granulated sugar

DIRECTIONS: In a large bowl, combine pistachios with remaining ingredients; blend well. Serve immediately or store in an airtight container up to two weeks.

Cheesy Cheddar Huddle-Ups

1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tube (8 ounces) refrigerated crescent rolls
2 tablespoons coarse ground mustard
1 package (16 ounces) Johnsonville Beddar with Cheddar Sausage

DIRECTIONS: In a skillet, saute onion in oil until light golden brown; cool. Unroll crescent dough and separate into triangles. Spread each with mustard and top with onions. Place one sausage on wide end of each triangle; roll up. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 350°F for 15 to 18 minutes or until golden brown and crispy.

Spicy Touchdown Tenders

1 lb. chicken tenders
3/4 cup buffalo chicken wing sauce
2 cups Hot & Spicy crackers, crushed

DIRECTIONS: Place chicken tenders in large plastic, zip-tip bag. Pour in buffalo chicken wing sauce. Refrigerate at least 30 minutes.

Spray baking sheet with cooking spray. Set aside.

Place crushed crackers on large plate. Remove each chicken tender from marinade and roll in crackers to coat. Place on prepared baking sheet. Repeat with remaining tenders. Discard any remaining marinade.

Place prepared chicken in preheated oven. Bake 15-20 until temp. reaches 165°F. Serve hot.

Spelman Alum Is Sam’s Club New CEO

Last week, Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. named Rosalind Brewer as CEO of Sam’s Club. She is the first woman and first African American to be a CEO at one of the retailer’s business units.

Brewer, 49, is replacing Brian Cornell, 52, who is leaving the company so he can return to the Northeast for family reasons. He has been CEO since 2009.

Brewer, who is president of Wal-Mart’s U.S. East business unit, will assume the post Feb. 1.

Prior to joining Wal-Mart, she held a number of executive positions at Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Brewer earned a Bachelor of Science in Chemistry from Stanford School of Law.

The Sam’s Club warehouse business, which accounts for about 12 percent of Wal-Mart’s annual sales, has been outperforming the company’s namesake stores. Fiscal third-quarter revenue from stores open at least one year rose 5.7 percent at Sam’s Club but 1.3 percent at Walmart stores in the U.S.

In the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, Bentonville, Ark.-based Wal-Mart operated 609 Sam’s Clubs in 48 states and Puerto Rico, with 47 million members.

Rosalind Brewer is the first woman and first African American to be CEO of a Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. business unit.

Feds Stop Woman, 101, From Entering Her Home

TEXANA HOLLIS

DETROIT – The federal government now says a 101-year-old Detroit woman it promised could move back into her foreclosed home four months ago can’t return because the building’s unsafe and untaxed.

Texana Hollis was evicted Sept. 12 and her belongings placed outside after her 65-year-old son failed to pay property taxes linked to a reverse mortgage and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development foreclosed on the home.

Two days later, the department said she could return. But now, HUD said it won’t let Hollis move back in because of the house’s condition. She had lived there about 60 years.

“Here I am, 100 years old, and don’t have a home,” Hollis said, rounding off her sentence with “Oh, Lord, help me.”

Department spokesman Brian Sullivan said that an inspection determined the house “was completely unsuitable for a person to live in.”

HUD doesn’t want to pay to fix up the house, but Sullivan said the department’s seeking other agencies that might help with the work and get Hollis back into her home.

In New Orleans, Elderly Pray Away Gang Violence

Several times a week, a group of six women and one man pray for their city as they drive through their gang-infested neighborhood in New Orleans.

Millie Campbell, 76, and Betty Minor, 69, are a part of the group who has been blessing the city for the past six weeks. As Campbell drives with Minor in her blue Chevrolet through the 7th Ward, Campbell says:

“Oh, God, we thank you for the blood of Jesus. Touch this block in the name of Jesus.

Santorum: Obama’s A ‘Big Boy’, Can Defend Himself On ‘Muslim’ Claim

Rick Santorum says President Barack Obama is a “big boy” who can defend himself against people like the woman at a Santorum town hall Monday, who called Pres. Obama an “avowed Muslim” who has no legal right to call himself president.

The woman made the statement during a Santorum event in Lady Lake, Fl. Santorum took a question from an unidentified woman who said, “I never refer to Pres. Obama as president because legally he is not, and well, he constantly ignores it. As you know, he does what he darn well pleases. He is an avowed Muslim, and my question is why isn’t something being done to get him out of our government. He has no legal right to be calling himself president.”

Santorum did not correct the woman who brought up this false claim. Instead, he responded that indeed, he was trying to get Pres. Obama out of government.

When asked by a reporter why he didn’t correct the woman for calling President Obama a Muslim, Senator Santorum said, “Why do you guys ask these ‘gotcha’ questions like it’s my job to go out and correct everybody who says something I don’t agree with?”

Local Movie Makes Big Screen Debut

BY LEON B. CREWS
Sentinel Staff Writer

Local promoter, Dorian Welch, along with East Exit Films, have completed the filming of "Sunshine," a movie starring local artists, and filmed in Tampa.

Welch said the idea was conceived a year ago. "This is our first movie project, so we really wanted it to be special and something everyone would enjoy," said Welch. "It took 18 months to complete the entire project, and we traveled all over the city to get it done."

"Sunshine" is a movie about two high school friends who try to cope with growing up in the inner-city in two different ways.

"This is about two young women who take different paths to get to the same place," said Welch.

Dow Juan of Down South Players, one of the executive producers of the film is doing pre-casting for "Sunshine." The main character will be Heather Marie, and a cameo appearance will be made by Trick Daddy.

There will also be a casting call for the movie, "16th Street," a movie about the life and times of Ted Willis. That movie will be filmed in Chicago starting September of this year.

Local artists appearing in "Sunshine" are Vonnie Vonshay, Tom G., and Janu, just to name a few.

Others appearing on the movie are Rick Ross, Do Or Die, Gorilla Zoe, Coolio, Da Don T, 2-Geeky, Pilla Phil, Porschia, T-Raw, Cass Lil Boosie, RO J Creek, G.I., DJ Trans Flyboy, Shae Allen, Legend, Gucci Mane, Snoopmen, Heather Marie, Jims Nu, Young AJ, Tae Bae Bae, Ms Coffee, Lil Wayne, and Krazy Legs.

The first 100 people will receive a copy of the movie and soundtrack that contains songs from the artists appearing in the film.

The movie will premiere at Muvico in Ybor City at 9:20 p.m. on Friday, January 27th.

For more information about the movie and the casting of the other two films, contact Dow Juan at (813) 765-5065.
