Initial Summer Sessions To Operate In Full Swing

USF Campus Edition Idea Spreads to SMU in Texas

Mid-term grades have become grades in the during the past several years. Many college students have found they are not getting the grades they want, or, at best, are not getting the grades they expected. A number of colleges now have a policy that requires students to have a minimum grade point average in order to be admitted to the college. This policy has been adopted by some colleges as a way of controlling the quality of students who are being admitted to the college.

USF Popularity With Sharp Increase

The number of students enrolled at the University of South Florida, which is a state university, has increased by more than 50 percent in the past five years. The university is now one of the largest in the state, with more than 15,000 students enrolled. This increase in enrollment has been attributed to a number of factors, including a growing population in the region and increased outreach efforts by the university. The growth in enrollment has also led to a number of changes at the university, including the addition of new programs and the expansion of existing ones. The university is now working to meet the needs of its growing student body, including the provision of additional academic and support services.

Children's Migraine Clears Up

By W. C. ALVAREZ, M.D.

An 11-year-old girl with a history of migraine headaches was treated naturally, and her symptoms disappeared.

"She was in bad condition when I first saw her," Dr. W. C. Alvarez said. "Her parents were worried. They had tried various medications, but none seemed to help.

"The child was having attacks of severe headache, often with vomiting. She would be down for a day or two after each attack. She also had applications of heat to her head, which did not help.

"I decided to try a natural approach. I suggested that she try the use of occlusal splints to help alleviate the pain.

"These splints are worn in the mouth during the day and at night to help the muscles of the jaw relax. I also recommended the use of a special herbal tea for her to drink, which I found to be effective in reducing the frequency of the headaches.

"I told her parents to watch for any changes in her condition, and to keep a record of her symptoms. They were very cooperative and followed my advice. After a few weeks, I began to see an improvement in her condition.

"She reported that the headaches were occurring less frequently, and that the duration of each attack was shorter. The episodes of vomiting also decreased.

"I continued to monitor her progress, and I was pleased to see that her condition continued to improve. After several months, she was completely free of her headaches.

"I attribute the success of this treatment to the use of the occlusal splints and the herbal tea. These natural remedies helped to reduce the tension in her muscles, and provided a soothing effect on her system.

"I would like to encourage other parents to consider natural approaches to the treatment of children's migraines. It is important to work with a qualified natural practitioner to ensure the best outcome.

"I wish the best for this child for a bright and healthy future.
